Nervous Trouble Hinted;
Duel Between Aides
Reported Halted

LONDON, July 25—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Warsaw today told of an unconfirmed report appearing in the newspaper Dziennik Ludowy to the effect that Reichsführer Adolf Hitler "is suffering from the effects of two nervous breakdowns." The paper added that an unnamed Vienna specialist had "refused to treat him."

The report was not credited in well-informed circles. Hitler arrived at Bayreuth for the Wagner music festival yesterday and appeared to be in good health.

The chancellor, according to the Warsaw rumor, collapsed during a conference of army officers after he had worked day and night smoothing out personal differences among his various army chieftains.

The newspaper spoke of a projected duel between two of the Fuehrer's chief aides, Generals Milch and Von Keitel, which Hitler was said to have prevented.

Arab Messenger Reported To Have Paid Ransom To Bedouins

JERUSALEM, July 25 — Release of the Rev. Gerould R. Goldner, Cleveland pastor kidnapped by Bedouins, was expected today following payment of $2,500 in small silver coins.

The money, reportedly raised by the Cleveland congregation of the 29-year-old missionary's father, the Rev. Dr. Jacob Goldner, was carried to the abductors by an Arab messenger.

Worry over his son's plight and the possibility he may have been harmed despite the ransom payment, caused the elder Dr. Goldner to collapse from a heart attack.

Two letters arrived by desert courier from the captive missionary saying he was "okay."

Young Goldner was abducted with his father a week ago today as they travelled on donkey-back on the Jerusalem-Jericho road.

The Arabs released the older minister so that he might return to Jerusalem and raise $5,000 ransom money. The amount was shaved down to half after negotiations through Bedouin intermediaries. British troops and police will go after the young pastor unless he is released by tonight, it was indicated.

ALDERMEN CITE NEED FOR CHECK ON CAR TRAFFIC

City Solicitor Instructed To Draw Ordinance For Immediate Action

CADY TALKS OF PROBLEM

Several Officials Disclose Pressure Put On Them To Correct Danger

Circleville may soon have a motorcycle patrolman.

Councilmen, during a recess session in their special meeting Monday night, decided to have an ordinance up for their next regular meeting providing for a motorcycle officer. This followed a lengthy discussion of traffic conditions. An ordinance to provide a motorcycle patrolman was voted down several months ago.

The discussion of traffic was brought before council by Frank Lynch. Mr. Lynch had voted against the former ordinance.

"I know now that I made a mistake when that ordinance was up before," he said. "Drivers of automobiles are running wild in this city. I've heard a lot of bitter complaints and they are justified."

"I followed a West Virginia car that was going 50 to 55 miles an hour on Court street from the greenhouse to the first traffic light. Drivers don't pay any attention to stop signs. If something isn't done soon, someone will be killed."

Limit Signs Needed

The councilman said signs warning motorists that the city streets are patrolled should be placed at the corporation limits.

Councilman Ben Gordon said he had received complaints recently about traffic conditions on E. Main street, largely concerning speeders. He said one resident said a petition would be prepared and presented to council if that action was necessary to get council to consider the traffic situation.

Mayor W. B. Cady explained to council that it was difficult to check traffic during the daytime as only two officers are on duty. "There are only two men on duty and one must remain at the desk," (Continued on Page Two)

AIR CORPS TESTS GIANT FORTRESS OVER LONG TRIP

WASHINGTON, July 25—The Army Air Corps today began a series of speed tests to learn how fast its famous four-engine flying fortress bomber will go in long distance flight.

A heavily-loaded fortress was scheduled to take off from Langley Field, Va., headquarters of the general headquarters air force, during the day to make the first flight at high speed over a triangular course from Langley to Bolling field in Washington to the vicinity of Floyd Bennett field near New York city and return to Langley.

The army kept details of the speed test secret, such as the time of departure and the weight load of the bomber.

Record Drought Sears Jersey

FARMERS in Sussex County, New Jersey, are pictured at top pumping water which they carted for miles to their cattle in drought-seared pastures as a result of the worst July dry spell in that section's history. Forest fires are an increasing danger to the farms and homes in the vicinity of Mountain Lakes.

Water Restrictions Required In New York And New Jersey Areas; Forest Fires Spreading

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
Scattered local thundershowers brought little relief to the Northeastern states, held in the grip of a searing July drought that continued today with the end not yet in sight.

More than 40 forest fires were reported during the weekend in upstate New York with similar conditions prevailing in other states as the unrelenting sun created tinder boxes of the woods.

In New York City, John F. Walsh, head gardener of the park department, estimated the loss in damage to trees, lawns and shrubbery at $200,000 with a loss of $1,000,000 probable unless a lasting rain soon occurs.

Thousands of berry pickers increased the forest fire hazard throughout the region.

Water restrictions were becoming effective in New York and New Jersey communities although the general practice was to delay their imposition as long as safely possible in order not unduly to alarm the residents.

In New England, several mills were reported tapping auxiliary sources of power because the usual water power was inadequate.

J. CHILCOAT, HURT IN 1921, TO WIN PAY FROM STATE

Jacob Chilcoat, Lovers Lane, is granted $12 a week from June 1, 1929 and compensation for the remainder of his life under a decision of Judge Phil A. Henderson, of Logan, filed Tuesday in Chilcoat's action against the Industrial Commission of Ohio. The case was submitted to the judge.

Mr. Chilcoat injured his right leg on Aug. 10, 1921 when employed for the American Straw Board Co., now the Container Corporation. His action stated that as a result of the injury, blood poisoning and an infection developed and his leg was amputated Oct. 6, 1925. The action said the infection affected his heart muscle and he is permanently disabled.

Compensation was paid until June 1, 1929, the petition said. He asked to participate in the insurance fund for the heart disease which he developed from the original injury.

CHIEF OF SOVIET NAVY SAYS JAPS 'NEED A LESSON'

Kuznetsov Ready To Act To Make Russia's Borders Inviolable

"FLEET NOT INFERIOR"

Admiral Places Strength On Par With U. S., Britain And Nipponese

MOSCOW, July 25 — Obviously referring to Japan, Soviet Navy Commissar Admiral Kuznetsov today declared in a fighting speech that Russia's neighbors in the Far East apparently need "a lesson" from the U. S. S. R.'s armed forces to teach them Russian frontiers are inviolable.

While Japanese warships were reported massing to defend asserted oil and mineral rights in the Soviet half of Sakhalin island, Kuznetsov warned the Soviet's "restless neighbors" of Russia's growing power on land, sea and in the air.

Apparently referring to the fighting between Japanese and Soviet troops on the Manchukuo-Outer Mongolian frontier in the Khalka valley, the admiral stated: "The best guaranty against all danger of armed attack is the Soviet Union's growing might — the increasing power of our armed forces on land, sea and in the air."

Neighbors Need Lesson

"I know that some of our restless neighbors in the Far East need a lesson from our armed forces before they realize that our frontiers are inviolable."

Kuznetsov claimed that Soviet naval strength has been augmented rapidly to such an extent that the U. S. S. R.'s fleet as it now stands is "in no way inferior to those of the great naval powers."

The Russian admiral thus placed Russia's fighting strength on the sea on a par with the "big three," America, Britain and Japan and since he probably was referring to the Anglo-America naval strength, he presumably considered Soviet naval power a cut above Nippon's.

"Soviet Russia," he added, "is already a naval power and is becoming stronger everyday."

"The Soviet Union is preparing now to lay down still larger ships."

Four Husbands Complain Wealthy Widow A Thief

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., July 25—A "wealthy widow" charged with robbing four men she married through "lonely heart" clubs was held on embezzlement charges today.

The woman, Mrs. Joseph Pelikan, 40, is accused of taking thousands of dollars from elderly men in Janesville and Appleton, Wis., Wilmette, Ill., and New Buffalo, Mich.

Prosecutor Robert B. Small said each man told the same story: He read the advertisement of the "wealthy widow" with an assured income in a Bohemian language newspaper. He married her. After the marriage she either had his money transferred to her name, or fled with money and jewelry.

Joseph Brcka, 70, of New Buffalo, the complaining witness, charged Mrs. Pelikan married him in 1933 and fled soon after with $3,700 of his money.

Others complaining against her were: Gottlieb Holbick, Wilmette, who

AIRPLANES OF TWO COUNTRIES PUT ON DISPLAY OF POWER

PARIS, July 25—Two hundred and forty top-flight British and French bombers and pursuit ships engaged today in maneuvers simulating a wartime-raid on Paris, but designed to impress potential enemies with the speed and power of Anglo-French aerial forces. The maneuvers, the most extensive yet held by the western allies, also were intended to prove British disavowal of appeasement diplomacy in favor of sterner preparedness measures to ensure peace.

At least 1,000 men comprised the crews of the fighting ships which roared over Paris skies for more than two hours as thousands of pedestrians craned their necks to watch the evolutions of British "attackers" and French "defenders."

Throughout the morning successive waves of Wellington bombers capable of sustained flight for a radius of 1,600 miles dashed across the English channel to be met by swarms of defending French pursuit and attack planes.

Faster Craft Used

Faster, lighter Blenheim bombers, with a cruising range of about 800 miles, alternated with the heavy Wellingtons in attacking maneuvers.

The problem involved was a realistic demonstration of modern aerial tactics in which wave after wave of heavy and light bombers alternately discharge tons of explosives.

Throughout the war game French pursuit and fighter planes harried the British assaults.

The planes were in the air well over three hours all told. The first squadrons returned to British airfields before noon followed immediately by the heavier bombers. The evolutions were carried out without a single motor failure or incident of any kind.

DIVINE'S RHODE ISLAND 'HEAVEN' MAY BE BOMBED

NEWPORT, R. I., July 25—A mysterious telephone message to police by a woman, and a crudely worded threat to bomb the mansion of wealthy Mrs. Angela Kaufman if she sold it as a new "Negro Heaven" to Father Divine, were probed today by police.

The woman told police in a guarded telephone message that the bomb threat had been hurled through the dining room window of "The Castles," which Mrs. Kaufman first planned to convert into a night club but was refused a liquor license.

Police went to the Castles and which had become unwrapped a piece of brown wrapping paper bearing the warning:

"Father Divine will receive a warm reception, 1000 strong K.K.K. A bomb will accompany the next warning. Black God Divine must not come here. Beware. Order 6556. Join now."

REVOLT GROWS AGAINST MANY OF F. D.'S BILLS

Barkley Calls Senators An Hour Earlier, Orders Night Sessions

G. O. P. BEING ENTERTAINED

Physician Says Many Given Hospital Aid During Lengthy Session

WASHINGTON, July 25 — Democratic leaders today sought to bring about early adjournment of a weary and rebellious congress which threatened to deliver further blows at the New Deal program.

The demand for adjournment next week became so strong that it appeared likely that many administration measures will be shelved until January.

Democratic Senate Leader Barkley ordered the senate into session an hour earlier each day, with night sessions beginning Wednesday, in order to throttle what he called the "desultory tactics" of members. Democratic Leader Rayburn of the house, working for early adjournment, said "we've got to adjourn sometime."

Republican leaders, happy over reverses suffered by the administration and continuous quarreling among Democrats, refused to encourage the adjournment drive. Repeatedly Republican senators rose to say "there's no hurry" to go home.

A bitter bipartisan battle on the proposed lending bill was being waged in the senate. House opposition was intense.

Fears arose that the Social Security revision bill, which contains tax savings of more than a billion dollars and an even greater liberalization of the act, may die in a conference deadlock. Senate conferees demanded acceptance of a two to one basis of aiding states pay old-age pensions, while house conferees insisted on keeping a 50-50 basis.

The $500,000,000 Wagner housing bill was blocked, temporarily at least in the house rules committee. The same committee also prepared to send to the floor a highly controversial measure modifying the wage and hour act.

Hope for railroad legislation—a part of the Roosevelt program—was virtually abandoned as the house riddled the Lea bill with weakening amendments.

Other Bills Menaced
A half-dozen other administration measures were threatened, including the important Philippine trade bill.

Adjournment sentiment was widespread among Democrats, Dr. George W. Calver, congressional physician, it was learned, reported that members of both (Continued on Page Two)

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., July 25—A "wealthy widow" charged with robbing four men she married through "lonely heart" clubs was held on embezzlement charges today.

The woman, Mrs. Joseph Pelikan, 40, is accused of taking thousands of dollars from elderly men in Janesville and Appleton, Wis., Wilmette, Ill., and New Buffalo, Mich.

Prosecutor Robert B. Small said each man told the same story: He read the advertisement of the "wealthy widow" with an assured income in a Bohemian language newspaper. He married her. After the marriage she either had his money transferred to her name, or fled with money and jewelry.

Joseph Brcka, 70, of New Buffalo, the complaining witness, charged Mrs. Pelikan married him in 1933 and fled soon after with $3,700 of his money.

Others complaining against her were: Gottlieb Holbeck, Wilmette, who said Mrs. Pelikan took $775 and a gold watch from him while they were honeymooning.

Frank Pagac, Appleton, swore out a warrant charging she took $1,800 from him after their marriage.

Mike Fortelka, Cadillac, Mich., charged she robbed him of $450 shortly before they were to have been married.

Mrs. Pelikan was arrested in Paw Paw and arraigned in St. Joseph justice court last night. She was held in $4,000 bond for examination August 4.

AIRPLANES OF TWO COUNTRIES PUT ON DISPLAY OF POWER

PARIS, July 25—Two hundred and forty top-flight British and French bombers and pursuit ships engaged today in maneuvers simulating a wartime raid on Paris, but designed to impress potential enemies with the speed and power of Anglo-French aerial forces.

The maneuvers, the most extensive yet held by the western allies, also were intended to prove British disavowal of appeasement diplomacy in favor of sterner preparedness measures to ensure peace.

At least 1,000 men comprised the crews of the fighting ships which roared over Paris skies for more than two hours as thousands of pedestrians craned their necks to watch the evolutions of British "attackers" and French "defenders."

Throughout the morning successive waves of Wellington bombers capable of sustained flight for a radius of 1,600 miles dashed across the English channel to be met by swarms of defending French pursuit and attack planes.

Faster Craft Used

Faster, lighter Blenheim bombers, with a cruising range of about 800 miles, alternated with the heavy Wellingtons in attacking maneuvers.

The problem involved was a realistic demonstration of modern aerial tactics in which wave after wave of heavy and light bombers alternately discharge tons of explosives.

Throughout the war game French pursuit and fighter planes harried the British assaults.

The planes were in the air well over three hours all told. The first squadrons returned to British airfields before noon followed immediately by the heavier bombers. The evolutions were carried out without a single motor failure or incident of any kind.

Death resulted from loss of blood and internal injuries.

DIVINE'S RHODE ISLAND 'HEAVEN' MAY BE BOMBED

NEWPORT, R. I., July 25—A mysterious telephone message to police by a woman, and a crudely worded threat to bomb the mansion of wealthy Mrs. Angela Kaufman if she sold it as a new "Negro Heaven" to Father Divine, were probed today by police.

The woman told police in a guarded telephone message that the bomb threat had been hurled through the dining room window of "The Castles," which Mrs. Kaufman first planned to convert into a night club but was refused a liquor license.

Police went to the Castles and which had become unwrapped a piece of brown wrapping paper bearing the warning:

"Father Divine will receive a warm reception, 1000 strong K.K.K. A bomb will accompany the next warning. Black God Divine must not come here. Beware. Order 6556. Join now."

Gross raised the novel question in charges filed with Judge Leland F. Ferry against John Sheridan, Fort Lee relief director. Gross accused the director of subjecting him to involuntary servitude or slavery in violation of the Constitution.

Until July 1, Gross had received relief without any conditions attached but on that date the mayor and council of Fort Lee decided relief should be worked off at the rate of 50 cents an hour. Gross rebelled and his food card was canceled. This, Gross charged, was a misdemeanor. He further alleged the community was obliged by law to provide him with relief and the law gave it no power to extract any work from him.

Barkley Calls Senators An Hour Earlier, Orders Night Sessions

Physician Says Many Given Hospital Aid During Lengthy Session

WASHINGTON, July 25 —

Democratic leaders today sought to bring about early adjournment of a weary and rebellious congress which threatened to deliver further blows at the New Deal program.

The demand for adjournment next week became so strong that it appeared likely that many administration measures will be shelved until January.

Democratic Senate Leader Barkley ordered the senate into session an hour earlier each day, with night sessions beginning Wednesday, in order to throttle what he called the "desultory tactics" of members. Democratic Leader Rayburn of the house, working for early adjournment, said "we've got to adjourn sometime."

Republican leaders, happy over reverses suffered by the administration and continuous quarreling among Democrats, refused to encourage the adjournment drive. Repeatedly Republican senators rose to say "there's no hurry" to go home.

Martin Would Stay

"We are satisfied to stay here as long as there is important business to attend to," House Republican Leader Martin remarked. "I don't see how we can adjourn next week unless some of the program is dropped."

A bitter bipartisan battle on the proposed lending bill was being waged in the senate. House opposition was intense.

Fears arose that the Social Security revision bill, which contains tax savings of more than a billion dollars and an even greater liberalization of the act, may die in a conference deadlock. Senate conferees demanded acceptance of a two to one basis of aiding states pay old-age pensions, while house conferees insisted on keeping a 50-50 basis.

The $500,000,000 Wagner housing bill was blocked, temporarily at least in the house rules committee. The same committee also prepared to send to the floor a highly controversial measure modifying the wage and hour act.

Hope for railroad legislation—a part of the Roosevelt program—was virtually abandoned as the house riddled the Lea bill with weakening amendments.

Other Bills Menaced

A half-dozen other administration measures were threatened, including the important Philippine trade bill.

Adjournment sentiment was widespread among Democrats, Dr. George W. Calver, congressional physician, it was learned, reported that members of both (Continued on Page Two)

The test will be conducted with the regular engines and no attempt will be made to "soup up" the ship.

It was admitted at the War Department that the speed tests did not have the significance of world record flights, as no similar speed tests had been held by the American army since the early 1920's. It was expected that national records would be shattered, because of the considerable period which has intervened since earlier speed tests were held.

YOUNG TO TELL HIS ACCOUNT OF LOTTERY PLANS

BOSTON, July 25—Owen D. Young, industrialist and chairman of the Will Rogers Memorial Commission, today was called as a witness before the federal grand jury probing a nation-wide $20,000,000 fake lottery ring centered in Chicago.

The syndicate allegedly perpetrated a swindle in the guise of a charity fund honoring the memory of the late humorist, according to Federal Attorney Edmund J. Brandon.

Young was expected to appear tomorrow and Thursday. Brandon said he was called in connection with a visit to him by a Chicago promoter. The man had the same scheme for raising funds which had been outlined to the widow of the late humorist.

Mrs. Rogers came to Boston from California to spend 12 minutes in the grand jury room and then left for New York.

Investigators said Mrs. Rogers was approached by a prominent Chicago sportsman who outlined a scheme for the establishment of a charity fund. The plan appeared so much like a lottery, Mrs. Rogers told officials, that she refused to give approval to the plan and forbade use of her late husband's name.

EXHIBITORS AT GOTHAM'S FAIR IN DRASTIC MOVE

NEW YORK, July 25—Alarmed over the below par attendance at the New York World's Fair, exhibitors at the exposition today were reported preparing a petition to Grover Whalen to draft the services of Maj. Lenox Lohr, president of the National Broadcasting Company and the man credited with pulling the Chicago Century of Progress exposition out of the red.

Small concessionaires meanwhile set up a clamor for a reduction in rent, claiming they were all losing money.

Whalen said a decision will be made tomorrow on the question of continuing the new $1 combination ticket, which induced a record weekend attendance, as a permanent feature.

WARM WEATHER MENACES POSSE HUNTING BODIES

GLACIER, Wash., July 25—Warm weather threatened new snow and ice slides today as veteran mountaineers pressed their search for the bodies of four of six college students buried Saturday in avalanche near the summit of Mt. Baker. The original searching party, after two days of trudging the deep crevasses and sheer slopes of the peak, was replaced yesterday by 28 fresh climbers.

Twenty-five Summer students—13 men and 12 women—from the Western Washington College of Education at nearby Bellingham were trapped by the huge snow slide. Nineteen escaped and returned late Saturday uninjured.

SHAKEDOWN TO RETAIN W. P. A. JOBS REPORTED

COLUMBUS, July 25—State W.P.A. Administrator Carl Watson today warned project workers to beware of shakedown attempts in connection with dismissal of those who have been the federal work relief program for longer than 18 months.

Watson's admonishment came after reports of a shakedown racket in Columbus wherein anonymous telephone calls advised workers they could escape dismissal by paying five dollars.

The administrator reminded project workers that dismissals are being made in accordance with an act of Congress and cannot be influenced by payment of money to anyone.

the mayor explained. "We do not have as much trouble checking traffic at night when more officers are working."

The mayor pointed out that when one officer is on calls in the daytime and the other has to remain on the desk there is no one checking traffic. During the noon hour when an officer is needed to check traffic in school zones during the school term there is only one policeman on duty and he remains on the desk.

Councilmen Julius Helwagen and W. M. Reid reported traffic conditions were bad in the streets on which they reside. Mr. Reid said autoists drive 40 to 50 miles an hour on E. Union street. Mr. Helwagen reported speeding on E. Main street.

Localities Blamed

"When an ordinance was up before there was a great deal of pressure brought on me by residents of Court street," Councilman Don Mason reported. "Most of our speeders are local people, and most of them young people with cars that should not be on the streets. I still am for a motorcycle patrolman."

Councilmen requested an ordinance providing for the motorcycle patrolmen be ready for the next meeting. From all indications it will meet the unanimous approval of councilmen.

"Career," which opens at the Grand theatre today, is one of those photoplays which doesn't fall into any of the ordinary classifications, and yet is one of the more absorbing and touching entertainments of the season.

The simple and homespun story of "Career," deals with life in the little Iowa town of Pittsville during 1931. It offers a cross-section of that town and of its people in a compelling fashion that makes it a really brilliant piece of screen fare.

Anne Shirley, playing the role of the town banker's daughter, and Edward Ellis, as the community's leading store-keeper, have the top roles, aided by a host of highly capable players—Samuel S. Hinds, Janet Beecher, Leon Errol, Raymond Hatton and John Qualen—and two clever young newcomers, Alice Eden and John Archer, final selections in the first "Gateway to Hollywood" talent search.

These players turn in notably natural and vivid performances in their respective roles. Ellis, long a rival of the banker, Hinds, suspects the latter of crooked work at the bank and draws out all his funds, thus precipitating the closing of the institution. The local feud that follows, and the solution of a brace of romances all make for the absorbing situations of "Career."

PARTITION IN COURT

An action for partition involving two tracts of land in New Holland was filed in Common Pleas court, Monday, by Harold Dennis, of near New Holland, against Oran Dennis, of near New Holland, and others. The petition says Harold Dennis has a legal right to an undivided one-eighth part of the real estate. The property involved was owned by the late Allen Dennis.

HUSBAND OF FORMER OHIO WOMAN GRANTED ALIMONY

LOS ANGELES, July 25—Because California has a law that a husband has as much right to alimony as a wife, Burt Simmons, 35-year-old oil worker, today had been awarded $100 a month compensation from Dorothy D. Simmons, wealthy Beverly Hills heiress.

Charging that his wife had wrecked their marriage, Simmons asked for $1,500 a month alimony. He claimed that Mrs. Simmons demanded so much of his time that he could not further his business interests.

Judge Parker Wood held however, that $1,500 a month was too much, declaring that "Simmons seems to be out to get as much as he can at the expense of the defendant and not what is reasonable."

Mrs. Simmons is the daughter of the late Walter Deuble, Canton, Ohio, banker.

But the robin wasn't the only one that suffered. A 66,000 volt fuse was blown out, shutting down power for two hours. Loss to the Ohio Power Company was estimated at $100.

800 MEN LEAVE ARMOUR PLANT IN C. I. O. STRIFE

CHICAGO, July 25—The Packinghouse Workers Organizing committee, a C. I. O. affiliate, today ordered a walkout demonstration of its members at the main Chicago plant of Armour and company, one of the nation's large meat packers. Union officials said about 800 employees were affected.

According to Herbert March, district P. W. O. C. leader, the demonstration order was a result of the refusal of Armour officials to meet with the union in conferences regarding a national wage and hour contract.

In a conference of national P. W. O. C. leaders in Chicago last week, a strike vote was authorized against Armour and other large packers. Armour's management maintains the dispute should be placed before the National Labor Relations Board.

EXHIBITORS AT GOTHAM'S FAIR IN DRASTIC MOVE

NEW YORK, July 25—Alarmed over the below par attendance at the New York World's Fair, exhibitors at the exposition today were reported preparing a petition to Grover Whalen to draft the services of Maj. Lenox Lohr, president of the National Broadcasting Company and the man credited with pulling the Chicago Century of Progress exposition out of the red.

Small concessionaires meanwhile set up a clamor for a reduction in rent, claiming they were all losing money.

Whalen said a decision will be made tomorrow on the question of continuing the new $1 combination ticket, which induced a record weekend attendance, as a permanent feature.

WARM WEATHER MENACES POSSE HUNTING BODIES

GLACIER, Wash., July 25—Warm weather threatened new snow and ice slides today as veteran mountaineers pressed their search for the bodies of four of six college students buried Saturday in avalanche near the summit of Mt. Baker. The original searching party, after two days of trudging the deep crevasses and sheer slopes of the peak, was replaced yesterday by 28 fresh climbers.

Twenty-five summer students—13 men and 12 women—from the Western Washington College of Education at nearby Bellingham were trapped by the huge snow slide. Nineteen escaped and returned late Saturday uninjured.

SHAKEDOWN TO RETAIN W. P. A. JOBS REPORTED

COLUMBUS, July 25 — State W.P.A. Administrator Carl Watson today warned project workers to beware of shakedown attempts in connection with dismissal of those who have been the federal work relief program for longer than 18 months.

Watson's admonishment came after reports of a shakedown racket in Columbus wherein anonymous telephone calls advised workers they could escape dismissal by paying five dollars.

The administrator reminded project workers that dismissals are being made in accordance with an act of Congress and cannot be influenced by payment of money to anyone.

the mayor explained. "We do not have as much trouble checking traffic at night when more officers are working."

The mayor pointed out that when one officer is on calls in the daytime and the other has to remain on the desk there is no one checking traffic. During the noon hour when an officer is needed to check traffic in school zones during the school term there is only one policeman on duty and he remains on the desk.

Councilmen Julius Helwage and W. M. Reid reported traffic conditions were bad in the streets on which they reside. Mr. Reid said autoists drive 40 to 50 miles an hour on E. Union street. Mr. Helwage reported speeding on E. Main street.

Localities Blamed
"When an ordinance was up before there was a great deal of pressure brought on me by residents of Court street," Councilman Don Mason reported. "Most of our speeders are local people, and most of them young people with cars that should not be on the streets. I still am for a motorcycle patrolman."

Councilmen requested an ordinance providing for the motorcycle patrolmen be ready for the next meeting. From all indications it will meet the unanimous approval of councilmen.

"Career," which opens at the Grand theatre today, is one of those photoplays which doesn't fall into any of the ordinary classifications, and yet is one of the more absorbing and touching entertainments of the season.

The simple and homespun story of "Career," deals with life in the little Iowa town of Pittsboro during 1931. It offers a cross-section of that town and of its people in a compelling fashion that makes it a really brilliant piece of screen fare.

Anne Shirley, playing the role of the town banker's daughter, and Edward Ellis, as the community's leading store-keeper, have the top roles, aided by a host of highly capable players—Samuel S. Hinds, Janet Beecher, Leon Errol, Raymond Hatton and John Qualen—and two clever young newcomers, Alice Eden and John Archer, final selections in the first "Gateway to Hollywood" talent search.

These players turn in notably natural and vivid performances in their respective roles. Ellis, long a rival of the banker, Hinds, suspects the latter of crooked work at the bank and draws out all his funds, thus precipitating the closing of the institution. The local feud that follows, and the solution of a brace of romances all make for the absorbing situations of "Career."

PARTITION IN COURT

An action for partition involving two tracts of land in New Holland was filed in Common Pleas court, Monday, by Harold Dennis, of near New Holland, against Oran Dennis, of near New Holland, and others. The petition says Harold Dennis had a legal right to an undivided one-eighth part of the real estate. The property involved was owned by the late Allen Dennis.

HUSBAND OF FORMER OHIO WOMAN GRANTED ALIMONY

LOS ANGELES, July 25 — Because California has a law that a husband has as much right to alimony as a wife, Burt Simmons, 35-year-old oil worker, today had been awarded $100 a month compensation from Dorothy D. Simmons, wealthy Beverly Hills heiress.

Charging that his wife had wrecked their marriage, Simmons asked for $1,500 a month alimony. He claimed that Mrs. Simmons demanded so much of his time that he could not further his business interests.

Judge Parker Wood held however, that $1,500 a month was too much, declaring that "Simmons seems to be out to get as much as he can at the expense of the defendant and not what is reasonable."

Mrs. Simmons is the daughter of the late Walter Deuble, Canton, Ohio, banker.

FRIED ROBIN CUTS OFF CADIZ POWER TWO HOURS

CADIZ, July 25—A food-hunting robin caused quite a commotion, all because he alighted at the wrong place.

The robin picked a four thousand volt switch at the Ohio and Pennsylvania mine, near Cadiz, for his resting place and got "cooked" to a turn.

But the robin wasn't the only one that suffered. A 66,000 volt fuse was blown out, shutting down power for two hours. Loss to the Ohio Power Company was estimated at $100.

ANOTHER PUBLIC OFFICIAL LEAVES LOUISIANA POST

NEW ORLEANS, July 25 — Resignation of William G. Rankin, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, today aroused widespread comment as investigators continued to delve into the multi-angled Louisiana political graft scandals.

In a communication to Governor Earl K. Long, brother of the late Huey P. Long, Rankin said: "You have requested that I resign as Commissioner of Conservation, giving as your reason that you have just become governor and that you should be given the right to appoint the heads of all executive departments. Although I am a constitutional official and only removable for cause, it is my desire to aid you in giving the state a good administration. Therefore I resign at your request."

Rankin's resignation followed a demand by the Young Men's Business Club of New Orleans that they be permitted to examine the books of the conservation department.

Attorney General David Ellison announced that the books of the conservation department are public and therefore subject to "being examined by any elector of the state of Louisiana or any taxpayer."

The attorney general's ruling was made after Rankin refused to permit the business men to examine the department's books.

800 MEN LEAVE ARMOUR PLANT IN C. I. O. STRIFE

CHICAGO, July 25—The Packinghouse Workers Organizing committee, a C. I. O. affiliate, today ordered a walkout demonstration of its members at the main Chicago plant of Armour and company, one of the nation's large meat packers. Union officials said about 800 employees were affected.

According to Herbert March, district P. W. O. C. leader, the demonstration order was a result of the refusal of Armour officials to meet with the union in conferences regarding a national wage and hour contract.

In a conference of national P. W. O. C. leaders in Chicago last week, a strike vote was authorized against Armour and other large packers. Armour's management maintains the dispute should be placed before the National Labor Relations Board.

COUNCIL OKEHS VOTE ON CHANGE OF GOVERNMENT

Ordinance Providing Ballot
Receives Unanimous Nod
At Special Confab

C. OF C. TO ACT NOW

15 Names To Be Placed On
Ticket To Draft Form
To Be Followed

Circleville voters will ballot at the November election on whether or not they want a charter form of government.

An ordinance providing for the vote was given a third reading and passed by council Monday night. All councilmen voted for the ordinance.

The ordinance provides a vote on the question "Shall a commission be chosen to frame a charter." In connection with the vote on the issue, 15 persons will be selected on a commission to frame a charter.

R. L. Brehrer, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on the charter form of government, when informed of council's action Monday night, said a list of those to run for commissioners would be prepared soon.

Goes To Election Board
The ordinance, introduced in council after 15 petitions bearing 442 names were presented, provides for Clerk Fred Nicholas to certify the issue to the board of elections.

"In case a majority of electors voting on the question Shall a commission be chosen to frame a charter? shall have voted in the affirmative, then and in that event, and not otherwise, the fifteen electors who shall have received the largest number of votes for members of such commission, shall be and constitute a commission to frame a charter, the ordinance states.

If the issue passes, a special election will then be called for a vote on the charter.

No Special Vote Needed
Filing of the petitions with council was arranged so the issue could be voted at the November election, eliminating the expense of a special election. The law provides the issue be submitted to voters in not less than 60 days nor more than 120 days. It could not be voted at the primary.

One ordinance passed by council Monday night under suspension of rules provided for a $2,000 bond issue for additional funds for completion of items of the disposal plant project.

COUNCILMEN HAVE FUN AT GORDON, MASON EXPENSE

Councilman Ben Gordon needs a chain and lock on his car when he attends council meetings. When attending the special meeting, Monday night, a group around the city building carried the councilman's Crosley car to the back hallway of the city building. The councilman took several groups for rides after his car was carried back to the street.

Councilman Don Mason was given a thrill when a Fourth of July bomb was placed on the motor of his car.

GOODMAN TO GRAND JURY
Stanley Goodman, 46, of York street, waived examination in Mayor W. B. Cady's court, Monday night, and was bound to the grand jury on a charge of operating a motor vehicle when intoxicated. Goodman provided $500 bond. He was arrested Sunday night.

It was believed to have been the largest crowd ever assembled for such an event. Last year Miss Pons in a similar concert had an audience of 175,000.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

over the State Department "Francis White will be down tomorrow"; "Francis White will be down tomorrow," until an observer gets the impression that the State Department today is run by none other than Mr. White, despite that fact that he was out at the end of the Hoover era.

Mr. White was then assistant secretary of state, is now a dyed-in-the-wool Tory, a hater of Roosevelt policies, and privately on the outs with Undersecretary Welles. Yet when it comes to foreign loans, the atrophied hand of the past, in the person of Mr. White, reaches into the State Department and dictates policy.

White's official title is president of the foreign Bondholders Protective Council, and his crusade is to squeeze the last penny of interest and amortization from Latin American governments which borrowed money from the United States during the lush bull market days of Calvin Coolidge.

Just at present his squeeze play is the subject of considerable inter-cabinet debate, with the Hopkins-Ickes-Morgenthau group arguing that if the United States is to preserve any semblance of democracy in certain Latin American countries it cannot play Uncle Shylock. They point out that the Francis White policy of exacting the last pound of flesh is driving these nations to barter and that Germany and Italy are the chief beneficiaries from the present White-dictated policy of the State Department.

INSIDE LOAN MAN
Inside fact is that the man who puts across White's ideas in the State Department is Economic Adviser Herbert Feis, another Hoover appointee. Feis is a charming, able gentleman who married the granddaughter of President Garfield, and himself god-fathered the Protective Council Committee. It was his baby. He conceived the idea during the closing months of the Hoover Administration just before the bank crash, and he has been nursing it ever since.

Feis's idea was to help the bankers who had advanced money to Latin American countries, also the bondholders. Now opposing him, several cabinet members argue that the way both to keep Latin America in friendship and to secure loan repayments is to extend easy credits which will develop Latin America's vast wealth, thus giving the opportunity to repay over a period of years.

The Feis-White group, on the other hand, want to squeeze every penny possible out of Latin America now. Every time they make a touch, it helps pay Francis White's salary and the committee's expenses.

So far, not enough has been collected for this purpose and the bankers have been digging down to make up the deficit. Recently, they have tired of this, also of White, and latest word is that they will cut off the dole and let Mr. White swim for himself. This may mean the virtual end of the Foreign Bondholders Protective Council.

AMERICAN RAILROADS

The No. 1 Transportation of the World

DO YOU know that the American railroads can haul, speedily and efficiently, more than a billion tons of freight a year—more than 30 tons for every family in the United States?

Do you know that the railroads handle more than eight times the tonnage handled by any other common carrier serving the nation?

Do you know that the railroads do this job at an average charge of about 1 cent for hauling a ton a mile? And that this is far less than the average charge made by any other carrier providing general transportation service?

Do you know that the average capacity of a freight car is more than 48 tons—and that many locomotives are able to pull, in a single train, a load of 5,000 tons?

These are facts—and they are made possible because the railroads have the real super-highways of today and tomorrow, built and maintained by private enterprise.

That is why the American railroads provide the most modern transportation in the world—mass transportation by means of a single power unit pulling a long train of cars—over a steel "highway" used for no other purpose but mass transportation.

And that's the only kind of transportation which makes possible our modern world of mass production and mass distribution of the things which the American people need and enjoy.

While railroads have been doing our hauling since ox-cart days, they have kept pace with the times by constantly improving and modernizing their track and equipment. The billions of dollars invested in improved facilities have been railroad dollars—not tax dollars. For railroads build their own tracks, maintain them, and pay taxes on them.

When you look at the record of the railroads and the job they are doing, you can see why government transportation policy should give all carriers equal treatment and an equal opportunity to earn a living.

Ticket To Draft Form
To Be Followed

Circleville voters will ballot at the November election on whether or not they want a charter form of government.

An ordinance providing for the vote was given a third reading and passed by council Monday night. All councilmen voted for the ordinance.

The ordinance provides a vote on the question "Shall a commission be chosen to frame a charter." In connection with the vote on the issue, 15 persons will be selected on a commission to frame a charter.

R. L. Brehmer, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on the charter form of government, when informed of council's action Monday night, said a list of those to run for commissioners would be prepared soon.

Goes To Election Board
The ordinance, introduced in council after 15 petitions bearing 442 names were presented, provides for Clerk Fred Nicholas to certify the issue to the board of elections.

"In case a majority of electors voting on the question shall a commission be chosen to frame a charter? shall have voted in the affirmative, then and in that event, and not otherwise, the fifteen electors who shall have received the largest number of votes for members of such commission, shall be and constitute a commission to frame a charter, the ordinance states.

If the issue passes, a special election will then be called for a vote on the charter.

No Special Vote Needed
Filing of the petitions with council was arranged so the issue could be voted at the November election, eliminating the expense of a special election. The law provides the issue be submitted to voters in not less than 60 days nor more than 120 days. It could not be voted at the primary.

One ordinance passed by council Monday night under suspension of rules provided for a $2,000 bond issue for additional funds for completion of items of the disposal plant project.

COUNCILMEN HAVE FUN AT GORDON, MASON EXPENSE

Councilman Ben Gordon needs a chain and lock on his car when he attends council meetings. When attending the special meeting, Monday night, a group around the city building carried the councilman's Crosley car to the back hallway of the city building. The councilman took several groups for rides after his car was carried back to the street.

Councilman Don Mason was given a thrill when a Fourth of July bomb was placed on the motor of his car.

GOODMAN TO GRAND JURY

Stanley Goodman, 46, of York street, waived examination in Mayor W. B. Cady's court, Monday night, and was bound to the grand jury on a charge of operating a motor vehicle when intoxicated. Goodman provided $500 bond. He was arrested Sunday night.

225,000 HEAR LILY PONS AT CHICAGO'S CONCERT

CHICAGO, July 25 — Lily Pons, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera in New York, was established as a smash hit today with Chicago concert lovers. A crowd estimated at more than 225,000 persons gathered last night to hear the diminutive Frenchwoman sing at an outdoor concert on the city's lake front. It was believed to have been the largest crowd ever assembled for such an event. Last year Miss Pons in a similar concert had an audience of 175,000.

over the State Department "Francis White will be down tomorrow"; "Francis White will be down tomorrow," until an observer gets the impression that the State Department today is run by none other than Mr. White, despite that fact that he was out at the end of the Hoover era.

Mr. White was then assistant secretary of state, is now a dyed-in-the-wool Tory, a hater of Roosevelt policies, and privately on the outs with Undersecretary Welles. Yet when it comes to foreign loans, the atrophied hand of the past, in the person of Mr. White, reaches into the State Department and dictates policy.

White's official title is president of the foreign bondholders Protective Council, and his crusade is to squeeze the last penny of interest and amortization from Latin American governments which borrowed money from the United States during the lush bull market days of Calvin Coolidge.

Just at present his squeeze play is the subject of considerable inter-cabinet debate, with the Hopkins-Ickes-Morgenthau group arguing that if the United States is to preserve any semblance of democracy in certain Latin American countries it cannot play Uncle Shylock. They point out that the Francis White policy of exacting the last pound of flesh is driving these nations to barter and that Germany and Italy are the chief beneficiaries from the present White-dictated policy of the State Department.

INSIDE LOAN MAN

Inside fact is that the man who puts across White's ideas in the State Department is Economic Adviser Herbert Feis, another Hoover appointee. Feis is a charming, able gentleman who married the granddaughter of President Garfield, and himself god-fathered the Protective Council Committee. It was his baby. He conceived the idea during the closing months of the Hoover Administration just before the bank crash, and he has been nursing it ever since.

Feis's idea was to help the bankers who had advanced money to Latin American countries, also the bondholders. Now opposing him, several cabinet members argue that the way both to keep Latin America in friendship and to secure loan repayments is to extend easy credits which will develop Latin America's vast wealth, thus giving the opportunity to repay over a period of years.

The Feis-White group, on the other hand, want to squeeze every penny possible out of Latin America now. Every time they make a touch, it helps pay Francis White's salary and the committee's expenses.

So far, not enough has been collected for this purpose and the bankers have been digging down to make up the deficit. Recently, they have tired of this, also of White, and latest word is that they will cut off the dole and let Mr. White swim for himself. This may mean the virtual end of the Foreign Bondholders Protective Council.

AUTO WRECKS BRIDGE

CADIZ, July 25—When an automobile driven by Edith Edwards, of Scio, struck a 50-foot iron bridge near Adena, the bridge was knocked into the creek below and it was estimated today that $10,000 will be required to replace the structure. An iron span was jammed through the back seat as the auto fell with the bridge, but Anna and Sue George, Dillonvale, and Miss Edwards escaped injury.

ONE PLAT SELLS, OTHERS FAIL TO BRING BIDDERS

A property in Five Points appraised at $350 was sold for $450, Monday afternoon, in a sheriff's sale at the courthouse. The purchaser was Jesse W. Green, of Springfield. The property was sold in an action brought by the Security Building & Loan Co., of Mt. Sterling, against Jamella Catherine Hess. It contained 44 poles of land.

No bid was received on a lot in Atlanta, put up for sale in an action brought by the building and loan company against Harry Zimmerman, and others.

There were no bidders on property in Scioto township offered for sale in a partition action brought by John S. Young against Charlotte Young, and others. The property included 40.6 poles of land.

AMERICAN RAILROADS

The No. 1 Transportation of the World

DO YOU know that the American railroads can haul, speedily and efficiently, more than a billion tons of freight a year—more than 30 tons for every family in the United States?

Do you know that the railroads handle more than eight times the tonnage handled by any other common carrier serving the nation?

Do you know that the railroads do this job at an average charge of about 1 cent for hauling a ton a mile? And that this is far less than the average charge made by any other carrier providing general transportation service?

Do you know that the average capacity of a freight car is more than 48 tons—and that many locomotives are able to pull, in a single train, a load of 5,000 tons?

These are facts—and they are made possible because the railroads have the real super-highways of today and tomorrow, built and maintained by private enterprise.

That is why the American railroads provide the most modern transportation in the world—mass transportation by means of a single power unit pulling a long train of cars—over a steel "highway" used for no other purpose but mass transportation.

And that's the only kind of transportation which makes possible our modern world of mass production and mass distribution of the things which the American people need and enjoy.

While railroads have been doing our hauling since ox-cart days, they have kept pace with the times by constantly improving and modernizing their track and equipment. The billions of dollars invested in improved facilities have been railroad dollars—not tax dollars. For railroads build their own tracks, maintain them, and pay taxes on them.

When you look at the record of the railroads and the job they are doing, you can see why government transportation policy should give all carriers equal treatment and an equal opportunity to earn a living.

NEAR-EAST BANDITS
MODERN governments behaving like bandits have made the real thing seem tame and remote. That is why the kidnapping of two American preachers, Dr. Jacob H. Goldner and his son Gerould, by Arabs in Palestine reads like something out of a tale of adventure.

It is a serious matter, however, to the families and parishioners of the Goldners in Cleveland and Mogadore, Ohio. The elder man was promptly released to enable him to raise the ransom for the younger one. It is hoped that both will be speedily returned to freedom and safety.

The situation reminds many Americans of the Moroccan bandit, Raisuli, who carried out a number of kidnappings and made himself objectionable to the British, French and American governments. When he kidnapped a naturalized American citizen in 1907, pressure brought to bear by the United States government resulted in quick action and actually helped the bandit. The Sultan paid the $70,000 ransom and restored to Raisuli property and honors previously taken from him.

Whether or not the present Arabian bandits will have such success remains to be seen. It is hoped that the British authorities there will handle the situation effectively. In addition to the anguish caused the Goldners, the kidnapping is fraught with peril in a time so disturbed with nationalism, racialism and other intense rivalries.

LOW INTEREST
THE New Jersey commissioner of banking reduces interest rates in state banks to 1 percent on savings accounts. The federal government, obeying the national banking act of 1935, reduces postal savings interest in that state to the same level. It is a striking example of the great downward trend of interest rates in recent years. Such rates may soon be common throughout the country, on bank savings deposits. There are even banks today which pay nothing on such deposits.

The reason is that the banks are "full of money." That is because they cannot find borrowers. They have lowered in many cases the interest they charge on the loans they make, but there is still not enough demand for bank loans.

Thus, even in a time of general business dullness, money accumulates in the banks or is invested in government bonds which pay more than the banks can pay. Strange as it may seem in such times, there is "too much money."

And this money is not evidence of financial health, but of debt. Every government bond and bank note shows that somebody owes money. In fact, money under our modern system, excepting gold, is all "evidence of debt."

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:
Up to find the world adrizzle, continuation of weather that I believe is fast becoming unusual for this time of year. Through the rain to the post, finding it deserted except for those busied at distribution behind the grills. Waved to them, gathered in my usual morning conglomeration and headed for the plant, there to await a break in the clouds before venturing out afoot.

It was shortly, before last Easter when Dick Fullen was asked what he wished the Easter bunny to bring him. "You can't fool me," declared Dick. "Santa Claus is dad and the Easter bunny is mom. But I want a dog." Dogs were not particular house favorites of Charlie, but dad finally had to give in and Dick got his dog. The other morning Charlie went to the basement and instead of one dog he had six.

Among the things I didn't know until now is that a quarter of a century ago Charlie Gilmore was a sergeant in the famous Kid Glove national guard company at Portland, Me. Ed Bessa was captain of the company when Charlie headed away from there. Sunday, Charlie and some other golfers from Pickaway club went to Columbus to contest with officers from Ft. Hayes. He was introduced to one Ed Bessa, now a major in the regular army. And what a talk fest that was, for they had not seen each other in 25 years.

Who remembers the color combination of the 1935 automobile licenses? Well, those tags were dark green and light blue. Saw one on a car here, right on the front, and thought someone must have a great pull with the patrol. Then on the rear did note a 1939 Florida license. Down there only one license is required, and that on the rear. Probably believe that only after one is run over by a car is the license number of interest. That car was owned by a man who, although now a resident of Florida, is proud of his former Ohio residence.

Chatted with Earl Smith, who returned Saturday from a vacation jaunt into Canada. Did right well in the fishing line and is brown as a berry. In the evening did go to the park to see the boys around the office play what they think is baseball. Some of it was not so bad, but my cash remains on the Reds. Anyway, they are having a lot of fun out of their athletic endeavor, and that is important. Home, then, at dark to spend a quiet evening, including a brief ride into the country. Have you noticed how numerous and beautiful are the fireflies on a dark night?

GENE COX NO. 1 NEPOTIST

WASHINGTON—No. 1 Dipper-into-the-Public-Pay-Trough on Capitol Hill is Gene Cox, pompadoured little Congressman from Georgia. For self and relatives he draws $27,600 annually in salaries from the public payroll.

This sets a record for Congressional nepotism. It also is more pay than is received by any individual public official except the President of the United States. Not even the High Commissioner to the Philippines or the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, next highest paid respectively, draw as much as the Cox family.

Gene Cox also holds another record. He is the No. 1 Congressional opponent of higher wages for American labor. No single individual has stormed so consistently against the Wage-Hour bill which endeavors to set fair standards for labor, than the Congressman from Georgia. He raves and fumes against the law on the floor, and is moving heaven and earth to emasculate it with amendments in committee.

Simultaneously, Cox has six relatives on the federal payroll drawing $17,600. Here is the record:

Lamar Cox, son, gets $4,800 as counsel of the Electric Home and Farm Authority.

Ode E. Cox, brother, gets $3,180 as assistant disbursing clerk of the House.

MRS. JIM LOU COX HOGGARD, sister, gets $2,400 as postmistress of Camilla, Ga., Cox's hometown. She has held this job for some time, and Jim Farley has just sent in her name for another 4-year appointment.

CHARLES M. COX, nephew, gets $3,800 as administrative officer in the north-central division of the A. A. A.

MARTHA HOGGARD, niece, gets $1,800 in Cox's office.

ROBERT E. COX, nephew, gets $1,620 as a clerk in the Library of Congress.

Which indicates that Roosevelt harbors no purge sentiments toward the man who has continually blasted him.

McNUTT'S FAME

It will probably be a shock to Paul McNutt to learn this, but he is not as famous around the National Press Club as he thinks.

The other day a lady operator in the Press Building asked a newsman, "What's going on up at the Press Club? We've certainly carried a lot of people up there in the last half hour."

"Paul McNutt is making a luncheon talk."

"McNutt, who's McNutt?"

"He's going to be our next President—he hopes."

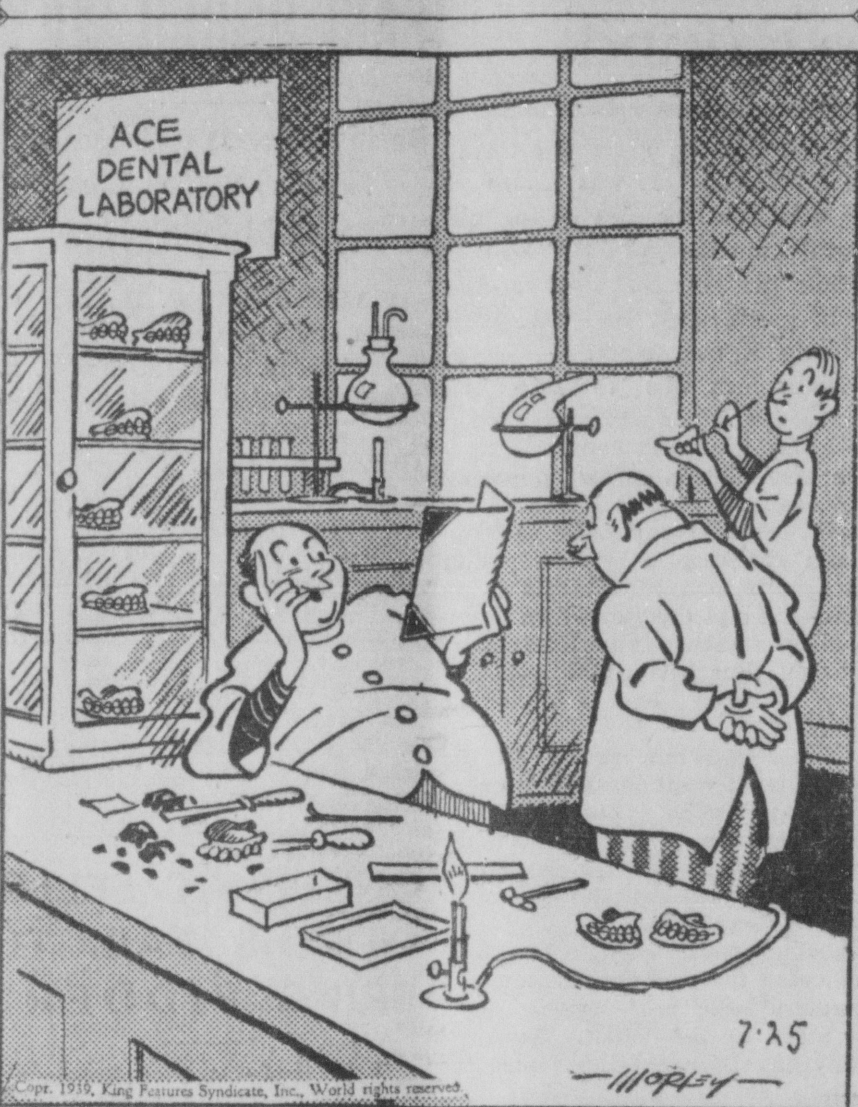

"Well, I'll say this," the girl replied, "if he's as nice a man as Mr. Hachten, (Arthur Hachten, president of the Press Club) he'll make you newspaper men a darned good president."

DIET AND HEALTH

"Dry Scalp" Is Often Chronic

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
INQUIRIES come to this department concerning dry scalp more often in the summer than the winter. Since there is no other special condition for this, I am inclined to believe that some of these cases are due to too much sun exposure. "Dry scalp," as you hear the complaint from the victim, usually means itchy scalp with scales. The word "dry" is a misnomer because the scales, or crusts, are fatty. The technical term for dry scalp is seborrhea, which means secretion of sebum, or skin fat.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Two types of seborrhea are distinguished. In one there is a great production of fatty scales, and this is called "oily seborrhea." In the other and more common type, the real dry scalp, the scales are tiny, branny flakes, and though they are really also fatty, they have the feel of being dry.

In dry seborrhea the hair is lustreless and the scalp is of a grayish hue. The condition usually comes on suddenly, and is apparently infectious, following a visit to the barber or to a hairdressing establishment, and especially following permanent waves. Barbers and hairdressers try very hard to maintain complete antiseptic precautions, but the laws of man and Nature are continuously against them. It is a wonder, indeed, that more cross infections do not occur on Saturday morning and afternoon when a dozen vain women or equally vain men are clamoring for beauty in order that they may desecrate the associated cafe society at the grill, the casino, the fair or the club that night.

Then, again, this suddenness of onset could argue for a chemical cause, considering all the tonics, restorers, brilliantines, dyes, touchers-up, rinses and other esoteric and hagiologic applications that are frantically demanded by the aesthetic yeomanry for perfection.

No, all in all, the barbers and hairdressers have a good deal to contend with.

Treatment of dry scalp is very satisfactory. Oils and other remedies are usually recommended. Treatment should be continued indefinitely because seborrhea is essentially a chronic disorder.

In addition to the application of drugs, the scalp should be given such ordinary hygienic treatment as a washing once a week, and if the oil and scales do not come away with one vigorous shampoo, it should be repeated every other day.

You're Telling Me!

HAT STYLES for autumn, according to some fashion experts, will be crazier than ever. There they go again—promising the impossible.

Things could be worse. For instance, there might be a revival of those radio hog and husband-calling contests.

Fleas, according to a noted bugologist, can live four months without food. There's many a pooch who heartily wishes they'd just try it.

Helium gas, a news story reveals, now may be liquified. One drink, we imagine, and—bam!—you hit the ceiling.

According to a noted reformer, betting on horse races indicates a lack of good intelligence. Hmmm, it's apparent that there's a fellow who never tried to work out a successful three-horse parlay.

Wings of Youth

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

ROBERT RANSOM answered his father's question as to why he had come home from college so near the term's opening, with one of his own.

"Why did you lie to me, sir?" "Lie to you? When?" The manufacturer leaned back in his comfortable leather chair, lit a long brown cigaret, and smiled at his son. "Tell me about it."

The boy's face was haggard and his eyes burned. His head ached, too. Corrinne was a grand girl. He knew that now. He always had known it. But it wasn't of Corrinne he was thinking. Whether she forgave him or not wasn't especially important. But this man, his father, who had been his idol and his ideal, had failed him unless there was some explanation. There MUST be. He had not prayed for a long time, but he felt the cosmic urge to ask help and strength moving within him now.

"Oh, God, don't let my father let me down!" he was saying silently. Briefly he told his father what had happened. His eyes began to have some justifiable reason. They were so young and frightened the man who could swing boards of directors whichever way he wanted the wind to blow looked away uncomfortably.

"Why does this matter so much to you, Robert?" the financier asked. "The girl's so important to your future happiness?"

"I thought she was, but this goes deeper. It gets at the roots of faith and honor. Somebody's been double-crossing me. Either you or the minister. I want to know which one. And Corrinne goes too." Even as he said it, he knew the minister was not guilty of directed wrong. In the small church bulletin, the man had pointed to a story which announced the gift of the anonymous benefactor and told for what it had been used.

If the minister had erred, it was in understanding only.

"Robert, I told you that I gave the girl's father a check so she would not hold you to that promise to marry her. It's the truth."

"Then why did he give the check to the church and why didn't she know about it?"

"Maybe his ministerial conscience began to annoy him—"

Robert stood up, reached for his hat. "You know better than that, sir. You gave the church a gift and then made me think it was a sell-out. I knew it, but I thought maybe there'd be a miracle and it would be explained." His voice broke. "There aren't any miracles! But you might have told me the truth—now, I always thought my dad was—was perfect!"

He barged out of the office, not looking back, because his eyes were hot and heavy and his voice wouldn't remain calm and quiet. He did not know that his father said his name twice.

On the street he remembered something. He did not want to face his father again. He went into an empty office of the great building and picked up a telephone. When his father answered, he said:

"I forgot to tell you, sir, that I'm leaving school. I'll see that the money for this year is refunded to you."

Then he hung up and went to the station. He had left his bag there. He wished desperately that he had someone else to whom to talk. His mother had died years ago. That was one reason that he and his father had been so close.

He did not know where to go. Some place on a train, he supposed. He had left his roadster at the college. He'd better return. Well, he would work hard, back there, and try to get over this. Then he remembered that he wasn't letting his father support him any more. Maybe he could earn his way. He might sell the car, some clothes and the private furniture for his suite in the house and—

"Why did you lie to me, sir?" asked Robert Ransom.

He became so busy with his list that he was amazed when the train pulled in. He did not take a Pullman this time. He went into the day coach. If he was going to make his own way, he had better begin at once, he decided.

Meantime, back at the college, so far from the campus to which Robert Ransom was speeding, the autumn rain of the past ten days had grown steadily stronger and the river had started to spread a carpet of water over the flats where the cabins and shanties stood, across from the greensward where the college buildings were located.

"Will there really be a flood?" Sarah Anne asked curiously. "No, just a threat," Corrinne answered from her place on the cushioned window seat in her room. "Twice a year we hear rumors. But look! The water is deep! Isn't that—Isn't that a red fire over there in the hollows?"

It was a signal, and as they watched the season, the thunderous sound of the water grew louder. A girl entered the room without knocking, her face white.

"I've been out on the campus and the boys are commandeering rowboats. You can't even get to the library now." She sat down on the red polka dotted bedspread and the water from her oxfords oozed across the red and white rug.

"The men are getting sandbags. They're afraid the dam will go." "It will go?" Sarah Anne asked, peering through the late gray light of the afternoon for a sign of life in those little houses standing like paper huts in the wet, low hollow.

All through dinner the girls in the dormitory heard the roar of the heavy water. It was inconsistent and ominous like the regular beat of a tom-tom which augured evil. Now and then an announcer brought a message over the radio, which was left on for all reports.

As the lamb chops were being served with creamed potatoes and new peas, the news man said: "Danger increases as the water mounts. Students at the college are asked to report for duty at the main administration building. This refers to the men. Girls will remain in their halls." And again he came briefly on to say: "The bridge below the campus has given way. The dam is going. There will be a sudden deluge. All towns on the river banks are ordered to begin evacuation. College students stay where you are, but get into the upper rooms."

Corrinne left her dinner and went to gaze at the campus. No one was being formal tonight. "The water is on a level with the window sills down toward the river," she came back to report. "We're fairly safe. The water is about halfway to our first window sills."

Nobody went to bed that night. The girls of the dormitory gathered in the large game room on the third floor. They sat quietly on the yellow-flowered, chintz-covered chairs and divans, on the floor and in the seats of the wide windows which opened toward the river. They did not undress. Most of them wore skirts and sweaters and heavy coats.

When the radio announcer spoke, everyone leaned toward the box which held his voice. Once he said: "Some tension wires are down. All men propelling boats are asked to be careful." A half hour later he came through to add: "The campus is in no immediate danger. The people in the flats need to be rescued quickly. Will anyone with a boat put it at our service, please? Call our station—"

He broke off and came on again to say: "The wires are down and telephone communication is severed. Put your boat out and we'll scout for it." At midnight hot sandwiches and coffee were served. By three o'clock many of the girls had fallen asleep where they were. Corrinne had pilloved her head on her coat and stretched out in a big chair, which she shared with her roommate. Sarah Anne, restless and moved by the figures of the men out there in the night, went down to the first floor. It was deserted. She could see the water now. It was still below the first floor window sills.

She could not open the door. The water would come in. Faintly and far away the announcer's voice came: "The dam will not survive the morning. State militia are being rushed to the scene. Worst flood ever to hit this section of the river country—stand by . . ."

NEAR-EAST BANDITS

MODERN governments behaving like bandits have made the real thing seem tame and remote. That is why the kidnapping of two American preachers, Dr. Jacob H. Goldner and his son Gerould, by Arabs in Palestine reads like something out of a tale of adventure.

It is a serious matter, however, to the families and parishioners of the Goldners in Cleveland and Mogadore, Ohio. The elder man was promptly released to enable him to raise the ransom for the younger one. It is hoped that both will be speedily returned to freedom and safety.

The situation reminds many Americans of the Moroccan bandit, Raisuli, who carried out a number of kidnappings and made himself objectionable to the British, French and American governments. When he kidnapped a naturalized American citizen in 1907, pressure brought to bear by the United States government resulted in quick action and actually helped the bandit. The Sultan paid the $70,000 ransom and restored to Raisuli property and honors previously taken from him.

Whether or not the present Arabian bandits will have such success remains to be seen. It is hoped that the British authorities there will handle the situation effectively. In addition to the anguish caused the Goldners, the kidnapping is fraught with peril in a time so disturbed with nationalism, racialism and other intense rivalries.

LOW INTEREST

THE New Jersey commissioner of banking reduces interest rates in state banks to 1 percent on savings accounts. The federal government, obeying the national banking act of 1935, reduces postal savings interest in that state to the same level. It is a striking example of the great downward trend of interest rates in recent years. Such rates may soon be common throughout the country, on bank savings deposits. There are even banks today which pay nothing on such deposits.

The reason is that the banks are "full of money." That is because they cannot find borrowers. They have lowered in many cases the interest they charge on the loans they make, but there is still not enough demand for bank loans.

Thus, even in a time of general business dullness, money accumulates in the banks or is invested in government bonds which pay more than the banks can pay. Strange as it may seem in such times, there is "too much money."

And this money is not evidence of financial health, but of debt. Every government bond and bank note shows that somebody owes money. In fact, money under our modern system, excepting gold, is all "evidence of debt."

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to find the world arid, continuation of weather that I believe is fast becoming unusual for this time of year. Through the rain to the post, finding it deserted except for those busied at distribution behind the grills. Waved to them, gathered in my usual morning conglomeration and headed for the plant, there to await a break in the clouds before venturing out afout.

It was shortly, before last Easter when Dick Fullen was asked what he wished the Easter bunny to bring him. "You can't fool me," declared Dick. "Santa Claus is dad and the Easter bunny is mom. But I want a dog." Dogs were not particular house favorites of Charlie, but dad finally had to give in and Dick got his dog. The other morning Charlie went to the basement and instead of one dog he had six.

Among the things I didn't know until now is that a quarter of a century ago Charlie Gilmore was a sergeant in the famous Kid Glove national guard company at Portland, Me. Ed Bessa was captain of the company when Charlie headed away from there. Sunday, Charlie and some other golfers from Pickaway club went to Columbus to contest with officers from Ft. Hayes. He was introduced to one Ed Bessa, now a major in the regular army. And what a talk fest that was, for they had not seen each other in 25 years.

Who remembers the color combination of the 1935 automobile licenses? Well, those tags were dark green and light blue. Saw one on a car here, right on the front, and thought someone must have a great pull with the patrol. Then on the rear did note a 1939 Florida license. Down there only one license is required, and that on the rear. Probably believe that only after one is run over by a car is the license number of interest. That car was owned by a man who, although now a resident of Florida, is proud of his former Ohio residence.

Chatted with Earl Smith, who returned Saturday from a vacation jaunt into Canada. Did right well in the fishing line and is brown as a berry. In the evening did go to the park to see the boys around the office play what they think is baseball. Some of it was not so bad, but my cash remains on the Reds. Anyway, they are having a lot of fun out of their athletic endeavor, and that is important. Home, then, at dark to spend a quiet evening, including a brief ride into the country. Have you noticed how numerous and beautiful are the fireflies on a dark night?

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

GENE COX NO. 1 NEPOTIST

WASHINGTON—No. 1 Dipper-into-the-Public-Pay-Trough on Capitol Hill is Gene Cox, pompadoured little Congressman from Georgia. For self and relatives he draws $27,600 annually in salaries from the public payroll.

This sets a record for Congressional nepotism. It also is more pay than is received by any individual public official except the President of the United States. Not even the High Commissioner to the Philippines or the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, next highest paid respectively, draw as much as the Cox family.

Gene Cox also holds another record. He is the No. 1 Congressional opponent of higher wages for American labor. No single individual has stormed so consistently against the Wage-Hour bill which endeavors to set fair standards for labor, than the Congressman from Georgia. He raves and fumes against the law on the floor, and is moving heaven and earth to emasculate it with amendments in committee.

Simultaneously, Cox has six relatives on the federal payroll drawing $17,600. Here is the record:

Lamar Cox, son, gets $4,800 as counsel of the Electric Home and Farm Authority.

Ode E. Cox, brother, gets $3,180 as assistant disbursing clerk of the House.

MRS. JIM LOU COX HOGGARD, sister, gets $2,400 as postmistress of Camilla, Ga., Cox's hometown. She has held this job for some time, and Jim Farley has just sent in her name for another 4-year appointment.

CHARLES M. COX, nephew, gets $3,800 as administrative officer in the north-central division of the A. A. A.

MARTHA HOGGARD, niece, gets $1,800 in Cox's office.

ROBERT E. COX, nephew, gets $1,620 as a clerk in the Library of Congress.

Which indicates that Roosevelt harbors no purge sentiments toward the man who has continually blasted him.

McNUTT'S FAME

It will probably be a shock to Paul McNutt to learn this, but he is not as famous around the National Press Club as he thinks.

The other day a lady operator in the Press Building asked a newsman, "What's going on up at the Press Club? We've certainly carried a lot of people up there in the last half hour."

"Paul McNutt is making a luncheon talk."

"McNutt, who's McNutt?"

"He's going to be our next President—he hopes."

"Well, I'll say this," the girl replied, "if he's as nice a man as Mr. Hachten, (Arthur Hachten, president of the Press Club) he'll make you newspaper men a darned good president."

HE RULES STATE DEPARTMENT

Periodically in the State Department a buzzer sounds on the desk of a high-placed official and a voice over the inter-office dictaphone announces: "Mr. Welles wants you to know that Francis White will be down from New York tomorrow."

DIET AND HEALTH

"Dry Scalp" Is Often Chronic

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

INQUIRIES come to this department concerning dry scalp more often in the summer than the winter. Since there is no other special condition for this, I am inclined to believe that some of these cases are due to too much sun exposure.

"Dry scalp," as you hear the complaint from the victim, usually means itchy scalp with scales. The word "dry" is a misnomer because the scales, or crusts, are fatty. The technical term for dry scalp is seborrhea, which means secretion of sebum, or skin fat.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Two types of seborrhea are distinguished. In one there is a great production of fatty scales, and this is called "oily seborrhea." In the other and more common type, the real dry scalp, the scales are tiny, branny flakes, and though they are really also fatty, they have the feel of being dry.

In dry seborrhea the hair is lustreless and the scalp is of a grayish hue. The condition usually comes on suddenly, and is apparently infectious, following a visit to the barber or to a hairdressing establishment, and especially following permanent waves. Barbers and hairdressers try very hard to maintain complete antiseptic precautions, but the laws of man and Nature are continuously against them.

It is a wonder, indeed, that more cross infections do not occur on Saturday morning and afternoon when a dozen vain women or equally vain men are clamoring for beauty in order that they may desolate the associated cafe society at the grill, the casino, the Fair or the club that night.

Then, again, this suddenness of onset could argue for a chemical cause, considering all the tonics, restorers, brillianines, dyes, touch-ups, rinses and other esoteric and hagiologic applications that are frantically demanded by the aesthetic yearners for perfection.

No, all in all, the barbers and hairdressers have a good deal to contend with.

Treatment of dry scalp is very satisfactory. Oils and other remedies are usually recommended. Treatment should be continued indefinitely because seborrhea is essentially a chronic disorder.

In addition to the application of drugs, the scalp should be given such ordinary hygienic treatment as a washing once a week, and if the oil and scales do not come away with one vigorous shampoo, it should be repeated every other day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. W.: "Concerning your article on lead poisoning, what danger, if any, is there attached to drinking hot tea from an ordinary pewter teapot, unlined?"

Answer: Pewter is an alloy of tin with copper and bismuth; no lead in it. But inferior sorts do contain lead. I know of no specific instance of lead poisoning resulting from drinking tea from such a pewter pot, but it certainly is possible.

J. M.: "I have a terrible thirst and my tongue feels as if it were stuck to the roof of my mouth."

Answer: Any excessive water loss will cause thirst. Diabetes in either form (diabetes mellitus or diabetes insipidus) will produce water loss.

M. R.: "Is mineral oil good for cleansing the skin?"

Answer: Mineral oil belongs to the list of epidermic ointments, which do not have much, if any, power of penetrating the skin. Therefore, it is a good cleansing agent.

J. A.: "(1) I am much too heavy for my own good and energy. I eat in spurts. (2) I oversleep. I have two alarm clocks which I never hear. (3) My skin feels dry and itches."

Answer: I seldom venture a diagnosis by correspondence, but in this case I am going to suggest lack of thyroid, or myxedema.

F. G.: "What can be done for intercostal neuralgia? Can it be cured, and how serious is it?"

Answer: The first thing that should be done for intercostal neuralgia is to make a diagnosis. Often it is a forerunner of shingles; the neuralgia may be present for some time before the eruption (the shingles) appears. One should be sure also that the intercostal neuralgia is not the neuralgic girdle of tabes. Also from pleurisy. For pure intercostal neuralgia, rest should be imposed by strapping the chest with adhesive tape. Heat by infra-red lamp, or ordinary electric pad, and the use of certain drugs are good adjuncts. Removal of the cause, in infected teeth, tonsils or other foci is recommended in stubborn cases.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Wings of Youth

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

ROBERT RANSOM answered his father's question as to why he had come home from college so near the term's opening, with one of his own.

"Why did you lie to me, sir?" "Lie to you? When?" The manufacturer leaned back in his comfortable leather chair, lit a long brown cigarette, and smiled at his son. "Tell me about it."

The boy's face was haggard and his eyes burned. His head ached, too. Corrinne was a grand girl. He knew that now. He always had known it. But it wasn't of Corrinne he was thinking. Whether she forgave him or not wasn't especially important. But this man, his father, who had been his idol and his ideal, had failed him unless there was some explanation. There MUST be. He had not prayed for a long time, but he felt the cosmic urge to ask help and strength moving within him now.

"Oh, God, don't let my father let me down!" he was saying silently. Briefly he told his father what had happened. His eyes begged for some justifiable reason. They were so young and frightened the man who could swing boards of directors whichever way he wanted the wind to blow looked away uncomfortably.

"Why does this matter so much to you, Robert?" the financier asked. "The girl's so important to your future happiness?"

"I thought she was, but this goes deeper. It gets at the roots of faith and honor. Somebody's been double-crossing me. Either you or the minister. I want to know which one. And Corrinne goes, too." Even as he said it, he knew the minister was not guilty of direct wrong. In the small church bulletin, the man had pointed to a story which announced the gift of the anonymous benefactor and told for what it had been used.

If the minister had erred, it was in understanding only.

"Robert, I told you that I gave the girl's father a check so she would not hold you to that promise to marry her. It's the truth."

Then why did he give the check to the church and why didn't she know about it?

"Maybe his ministerial conscience began to annoy him."

Robert stood up, reached for his hat. "You know better than that, sir. You gave the church a gift and then made me think it was a sell-out. I knew it, but I thought maybe there'd be a miracle and it would be explained." His voice broke. "There aren't any miracles! But you might have told me the truth—now. I always thought my dad was—was perfect!"

He barged out of the office, not looking back, because his eyes were hot and heavy and his voice wouldn't remain calm and quiet. He did not know that his father stood up, reached out a hand, and said his name twice.

On the street he remembered something. He did not want to face his father again. He went into an empty office of the great building and picked up a telephone. When his father answered, he said:

"I forgot to tell you, sir, that the money for this year is refunded to you."

Then he hung up and went to the station. He had left his bag there. He wished desperately that he had someone else to whom to talk. His mother had died years ago. That was one reason that he and his father had been so close.

He did not know where to go. Some place on a train, he supposed. He had left his roadster at the college. He'd better return. Well, he would work hard, back there, and try to get over this. Then he remembered that he wasn't letting his father support him any more. Maybe he could earn his way. He might sell the car, some clothes and the private furniture for his suite in the house and—

"Why did you lie to me, sir?" asked Robert Ransom.

He became so busy with his list that he was amazed when the train pulled in. He did not take a Pullman this time. He went into the day coach. If he was going to make his way, he had better begin at once, he decided.

Meantime, back at the college, so far from the campus to which Robert Ransom was speeding, the autumn rain of the past ten days had grown steadily stronger and the river had started to spread a carpet of water over the flats where the cabins and shanties stood, across from the greenhouse where, at once, he decided.

"Will there really be a flood?" Sarah Anne asked curiously.

"No, just a threat," Corrinne answered from her place on the cushioned window seat in her room. "Twice a year we hear rumors. But look! The water is deep! Isn't that—Isn't that a red fire over there in the hollows?"

It was a signal, and as they watched the horizon, the thunderous sound of the water grew louder. A girl entered the room without knocking, her face white.

"I've been out on the campus and the boys are commandeering rowboats. You can't even get to the library now." She sat down on the red polka dotted bedspread and the water from her oxford shoes oozed across the red and white rag rug. "The men are getting sandbags. They're afraid the dam will go."

"It will go?" Sarah Anne asked, peering through the late gray light of the afternoon for a sign of life in those little houses standing like paper huts in the wet, low hollow.

All through dinner the girls in the dormitory heard the roar of the heavy water. It was inconsistent and ominous like the regular beat of a tom-tom which augured evil. Now and then an announcer brought a message over the radio, which was left on for all reports.

As the lamb chops were being served with creamed potatoes and new peas, the news man said: "Danger increases as the water mounts. Students at the college are asked to report for duty at the main administration building. This refers to the men. Girls will remain in their halls."

And again he came briefly on to say: "The bridge below the campus has given way. The dam is going. There will be a sudden deluge. All towns on the river banks are ordered to begin evacuation. College students stay where you are, but get into the upper rooms."

Corrinne left her dinner and went to gaze at the campus. No one was going at the moment. The water is on a level with the window sills down toward the river," she came back to report. "We're fairly safe. The water is about halfway to our first window sills."

Nobody went to bed that night. The girls of the dormitory gathered in the large game room on the third floor. They sat quietly on the yellow-flowered, chintz-covered chairs and divans, on the floor and in the seats of the wide windows which opened toward the river. They did not undress. Most of them wore skirts and sweaters and heavy coats.

When the radio announcer spoke, everyone leaned toward the box which held his voice. Once he said: "Some tension wires are down. All men propelling boats are asked to be careful." A half hour later he came through to add: "The campus is in no immediate danger. The people in the flats need to be rescued quickly. Will anyone with a boat put it at our service, please? Call our station—"

He broke off on again to say: "The wires are down and telephone communication is severed. Put your boat out and we'll coast for it."

At midnight hot sandwiches and coffee were served. By three o'clock many of the girls had fallen asleep where they were. Corrinne had piloted her head on her coat and stretched out in a big chair, which she shared with her roommate.

Sarah Anne, restless and moved by the figures of the men out there in the night, went down to the first floor. It was deserted. She could see the water now. It was still below the first floor window sills.

She could not open the door. The water would come in. Faintly and far away the announcer's voice came: "The dam will not survive the morning. State militia are being rushed to the scene. Worst flood ever to hit this section of the river country—stand by . . ."

GARDEN-GRAPH

New Bulbs from Old Lily Scales

Hardy lilies add so much to a garden by their striking appearance that if we have only a few we want many more. Fortunately lilies, like many other plants, can be easily propagated.

Lilies having large, fleshy scales, such as those of the Madonna lily, can be propagated by removing the outer scales, as shown in the illustration, and planting them. This should not be done, however, until after the lily has bloomed.

Dig up a bulb and remove the outer row of scales. A dozen scales can be removed without injuring the parent bulb. Partially bury the scales in a sandy soil, base down. In about six weeks time bulbils will have formed at the base of each scale.

These new bulbils can be wintered over in a frame or planted out in the garden. In the latter case they must be protected the first winter.

They will relate how a fish, a snake, a toad and an earache were instrumental in bringing back a knife, a ring and a diamond. Ripley will also present another "Believe It or Not" dramatization as an additional feature.

The list of nationally-known speakers on the program, to be aired from 11:45 a. m. to 12:15 p. m., is headed by Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of General Electric, and Charles P. Taft, son of former president William Howard Taft and a member of Cincinnati's City Council. Others scheduled to speak are Walter Hubbard, Jr., Franklin S. Edmonds and G. Herbert Smith. Dr. Smith, general secretary of the fraternity, will tender the centenary records to an official custodian of Beta Theta Pi.

RADIO BRIEFS
Walter O'Keefe has been signed to the Tuesday series which Dick Powell handled the last season. He opens Sept. 19. This means that O'Keefe will definitely not be with Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra when they return to their Monday night CBS slot Aug. 21.

Bob Ripley brings three people who found lost articles under unusual circumstances to his "Believe It or Not" program over CBS Friday, July 28 at 9:30. They will relate how a fish, a snake, a toad and an earache were instrumental in bringing back a knife, a ring and a diamond. Ripley will also present another "Believe It or Not" dramatization as an additional feature.

The Screen Guild Show has been signed to return to the air in the Fall. The spot is now being held down by "The Musical Playhouse" over CBS with Jane Froy.

GARDEN-GRAPH

New Bulbs from Old Lily Scales

Hardy lilies add so much to a garden by their striking appearance that if we have only a few we want many more. Fortunately lilies, like many other plants, can be easily propagated.

Lilies having large, fleshy scales, such as those of the Madonna lily, can be propagated by removing the outer scales, as shown in the illustration, and planting them. This should not be done, however, until after the lily has bloomed.

Dig up a bulb and remove the outer row of scales. A dozen scales can be removed without injuring the parent bulb. Partially bury the scales in a sandy soil, base down. In about six weeks time bulbils will have formed at the base of each scale.

These new bulbs can be wintered over in a frame or planted out in the garden. In the latter case they must be protected the first winter.

PICKET PICKET CHIEF

NEWTON, Iowa — When a picketer becomes picketed, he knows one way to get the pickets from his front doorstep. Hollis Hall, former vice president of the local union at the Maytag Washing Machine plant, directed picketing activities there during a strike last Summer. When he got married recently he forgot to "set 'em up" for friends. They picketed his apartment. Hall took the hint and bought cigars and treats. The line of pickets vanished.

WAR TALK AIDS CAMPS

NEW YORK — The unsettled situation has effected an increased interest in Summer camps for boys and girls in the United States, according to Kenneth J. Beebe, director of the Camp Information Bureau of the American Schools Association. Beebe reports that inquiries for camps have increased 20 percent this year over last. European travel being considered unsafe, Beebe says, many parents and students are seeking camps for their boys and girls and themselves.

PUBLINKS GOLF STARS TO FACE HOT COMPETITION

MT. PLEASANT GOLF COURSE BALTIMORE, July 25 —With 64 workingmen-golfers posting scores of 77 or better, in the first half of the qualifying round, officials predicted that a score around 154 would be necessary to qualify for match play in the National Public Parks golf championship, as the final 13-hole medal round opened today.

Low in the field of 178 entries from all the sections of the United States and its possessions, were two school boys, Gerry Bert, Jr., Seattle, and Luke Barnes of Atlanta, Georgia's team of Luke Barnes, Charlie Barnes and Ralph Barnes. As play opened today Bert had a two under par 70 on which to work. Barnes was only a stroke behind. They were the only shot makers to sub par in the initial 18 holes yesterday over the grueling par 72, Mt. Pleasant layout of 6,885 yards.

However, four other players, equalled par. They were Mike Cestone, Montclair, N. J., mail carrier; Don Erickson, Los Angeles gas company employee; Arthur Armstrong, 21-year-old Honolulu clerk, and Ralph Reed, tournament veteran from Lincoln, Nebr. Sixty-four players will qualify for match play which opens Wednesday morning.

MT. PLEASANT GOLF COURSE BALTIMORE, July 25—With 64 workingmen-golfers posting scores of 70 or better, in the first half of the qualifying round, officials predicted that a score around 154 would be necessary to qualify for match play in the National Public Parks golf championship, as the final 18-hole medal round opened today.

Low in the field of 178 entries from all the sections of the United States and its possessions, were two school boys, Gerry Bert, Jr., Seattle, and Luke Barnes of Atlanta, Georgia's team of Luke Barnes, Charlie Barnes and Ralph Barnes. As play opened today Bert had a two under par 70 on which to stroke behind. They were the only shot makers to sub par in the initial 18 holes yesterday over the grueling par 72, Mt. Pleasant layout of 6,855 yards.

However, four other players, equaled par. They were Mike Cestone, Montclair, N. J., mail carrier; Don Erickson, Los Angeles gas company employee; Arthur Armstrong, 21-year-old Honolulu clerk, and Ralph Reed, tournament veteran from Lincoln, Nebr. Sixty-four players will qualify for match play which opens Wednesday morning.

Reds and Yanks BOTH AT HOME TO GUARD LEAD

NEW YORK, July 25—Those traveling major leaguers today came to rest and resume action after spending yesterday in going from East to West in the National league and vice versa in the American.

The invasions recently concluded left the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds in stronger control of their respective leagues than when they began.

Manager Joe McCarthy's Yankees, who were teetering on the precipice of apparent collapse when they went West, are home to begin a series with the St. Louis Browns with a lead of 7 1/2 games over the Boston Red Sox. The Reds, playing host to the Boston Bees, have raised their National league edge to nine games over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Scheduled along the re-arranged battlefield are these additional battles:

In the National league, New York Giants at St. Louis, Brooklyn at Chicago and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh. In the American league, Cleveland at Philadelphia, Detroit at Washington and Chicago at Boston.

The Giants are carrying a nine-game losing streak into the West. Western teams at the Polo Grounds inflicted 10 defeats in 11 games on the crippled Terrymen and practically tossed them out of the pennant fight, 12 1/2 games behind in sixth place.

BUDDY WALKER WINS
COLUMBUS, July 25—Declared winner of eight rounds, Jack "Buddy" Walker, Columbus heavyweight, today held a decisive 10-round victory over Paul Favors of Detroit. The Detroit star was on the floor for a count of seven in the ninth but managed to hang on until the final gong.

REDS PREPARE FOR IMPORTANT 14-GAME SERIES
CINCINNATI, July 25—A busy week end faces the league-leading Cincinnati Reds as they start their semi-final stand at Crosley Field. During this home stay they will play fourteen games, weather permitting, before they again take off for foreign climes.

The Boston Bees will supply the opposition Thursday when the Reds appear in a doubleheader which is also a ladies' day. On Friday the Philadelphia Phils come to-town for single games that day and Friday, and a twin bill on Sunday.

The coming of August coincides with the coming of the New York Giants, who start a series of three games here on August 1. The series will close with a ladies' day battle on August 3. The Reds and Giants have not met since the celebrated series at the Polo Grounds that produced the disputed home run by Harry Craft.

The powerful arcs will blaze again at Crosley Field when the Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers clash in a night game on August 4. The Reds will also meet the clan of Flatbush in a single game the next day and a doubleheader on August 6.

Following that the Reds will journey to Chicago for five games in three days and then to St. Louis for a trio of contests against the Cardinals.

In winning his first sixteen games, Bucky Walters defeated every club in the league at least twice, except the Phils, whom he has faced just once. Bucky included four wins over the Dodgers and three over the Bees.

"DREAM" SQUAD SELECTED FOR STAR GRID TILT

T. C. U. Star Leads In Poll For Right To Play New York Giants

GAME TO BE IN CHICAGO

Middlewest Features Vote; Brown And Wyatt To Play End Positions

CHICAGO, July 25 — A football coach's "dream team" took shape today with the announcement of the make up of a college all-star squad which will battle the New York Giants, National Professional Football league champions, at Soldier field on the night of August 30.

Millions of voters in a nationwide poll selected the following players for the collegians' starting lineup (with votes received in parentheses):

Ends—Brown, Notre Dame (1,062,183) and Wyatt, Tennessee (863,814); Tackles—Mihal, Purdue (829,617) and Haak, Indiana (784,298); guards — Heikkinen, Michigan (846,943) and Twedell, Minnesota (781,682); center — Broch, Nebraska (693,112); quarterback — O'Brien, Texas Christian (1,204,516); halfbacks—MacLeod, Dartmouth (846,611) and Goldberg, Pittsburgh (812,524); fullback — Weiss, Wisconsin (1,108,762).

That, at least, is the way the fans want their starting array. Whether all those selected will accept the invitation to play is a question. In the past, few have declined.

Must Start This Team
According to rules of the poll, which closed Saturday, the coaches, also to be selected by ballot, must start the above men. However, after the whistle blows, the game is theirs and they can substitute at will.

Before, the members of this second team, with votes cast shown, may see even more action than the first stringers.

Ends — Daddio, Pittsburgh and Holland, Cornell; tackles — Beiner, Notre Dame and Hale, Texas Christian; guards — Howland, Wisconsin and Bock, Iowa State; center — Aldrich, Texas Christian; quarterback — Faust, Minnesota; halfbacks — Anders, Drake, and Smlanich, Arizona; fullback, Buhler, Minnesota.

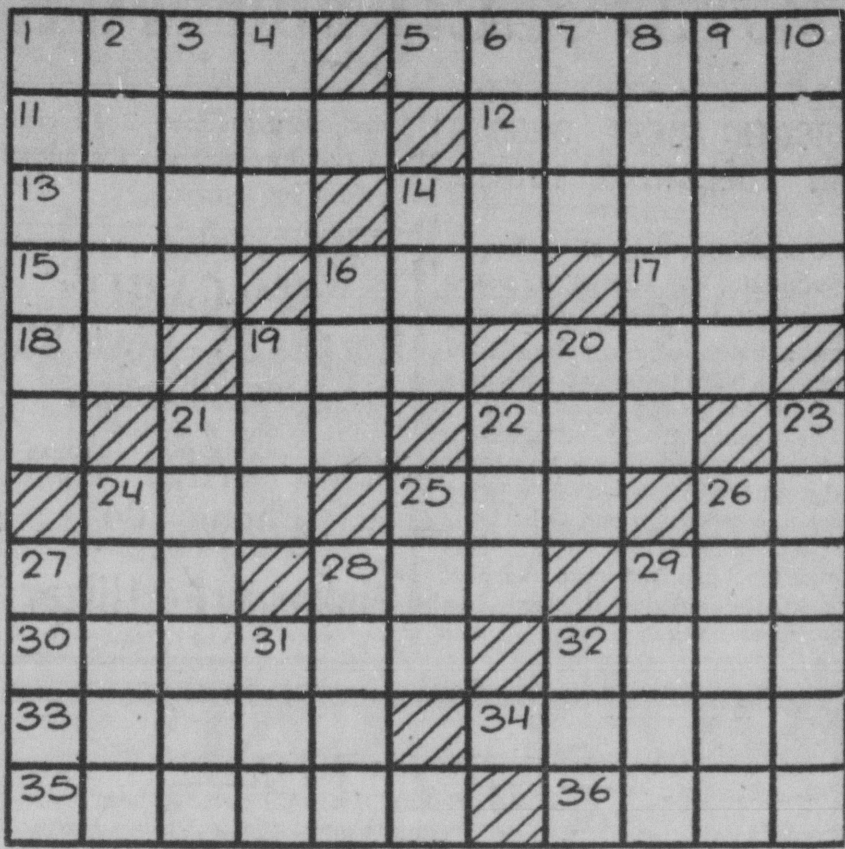

In all, 69 players representing 39 schools were chosen. Thirty-three players are from colleges in the Midwest. Eleven players are from the East, nine from the South and nine from the Pacific coast.

Davy O'Brien, Texas Christian's sensational "vest pocket" forward passer, received the highest total of votes, with Howard Weiss, Wisconsin fullback, second and Brown of Notre Dame third. These three got a million or more votes.

MILLERS CLIMB CLOSE TO BLUES IN LEAGUE RACE
MINNEAPOLIS, July 25—The Minneapolis Millers, right on Kansas City's heels, hoped for another victory today which might send them into a tie for first place.

The Millers, by defeating Columbus 3 to 1 last night, remained only one game removed from that much sought for first rung in the American Association. The Blues held on to their slim lead by trimming Indianapolis 7 to 3.

KIWANIS CLUB'S CAMP FOR BOYS OPENS AUGUST 7 AT GOLD CLIFF PARK

PASTORS ASKED TO PICK YOUTHS FOR WEEK STAY

Full Program To Be Set Up With Trained Men As Directors

BIG TENT IS OBTAINED

Ball Funds To Be Used For Undertaking By Service Organization

A camp for underprivileged boys, sponsored by the Kiwanis club, will be held at Gold Cliff park, Aug. 7 to 12 inclusive. The dates were announced Tuesday by Elmer Stebelton, chairman of the committee on camp arrangements.

Each pastor of Pickaway county will be asked to select one underprivileged youth between the age of 12 and 14, inclusive, to attend the camp. It is planned to have about 20 youths.

Throughout the week the youths will have a program of recreation activities with four trained recreation directors of the W.P.A. in charge. The camp program will be in charge of Walden Reichelderfer, to be assisted by three instructors. Swimming will be enjoyed daily from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m.

Funds for the operation of the camp were obtained by the club from the Policeman's and Fireman's ball sponsored by the club last winter.

The Pickaway county Agricultural society, sponsor of the annual Pumpkin show, recently granted the club permission to use a tent during the week. The Boy Scout cabin at Gold Cliff will be used also for the camp.

Kiwanians will meet and eat with the boys on evening of Aug. 7.

Members of the camp committee, in addition to Mr. Stebelton, are L. V. Hulise, D. H. Marcy, Dan McClain and Herschel Hill.

Dr. B. R. Bales addressed Kiwanians Monday evening at their meeting at the Pickaway Country Club, explaining his hobby of shell collecting. Dr. Bales exhibited part of his interesting collection and answered numerous questions concerning the hobby.

According to word given us Monday evening by Meinhard Crites himself, the local cannery will not be in operation until, possibly, the latter part of the present week and may not be until the Monday following. Said that prospects were promising for a good crop of fine corn and that everything about the factory equipment is ready for operation.

Within the last few days several local farmers in at "headquarters", told us that the finest field of corn they have yet seen this year, is out at the Roger Hedges' place. It is Fred Richey's experimental plot of several acres and contains hundreds of cross bred matings. So, we all of us, present to you, Mr. Richey, a fine bunch of posies, and these before the lid goes on.

S. C. and Ethel Allison had for their guests at the Allison home Sunday, Mr. Allison's brothers, Charles and William of Scioto county. . . . Clay Garner of Akron was a recent visitor at the home of his sister, Miss Lulu Garner. . . . Grover Cline is yet on the improve and is below stairs now, fully dressed, eats all he can get under guard, and hopes to be back at the elevator again "one of these days now soon".

Relatives of Homer Sark, Duval, surprised him Sunday, his birthday, with making an unexpected call upon him and his family and with well filled baskets. Those present were Howard and Mrs. Ett and family; Robert and Mrs. Dennis and family; Julia A. Sark and Homer and Mrs. Sark and family all of Ashville.

The Misses Edna Hunt and Esther Smith have returned home from Ironton where they were the guests of John Ford and family.

In Mass Marriage Spotlight

FATHER Henri Roy, founder of the Jociet organization of young Catholic workers in the United States and Canada, is pictured above, left. He planned and organized the mass marriage at Montreal, Canada, where 100 "model couples," rigidly trained for a year in marriage preparation courses, were wed. Pretty Lucie Nadon, 22, right, is a typical bride.

Ohio Prison Warden's Position Goes Begging

COLUMBUS, July 25—Who wants the job of keeping 4,200 restive criminals satisfied and obedient in antiquated, overcrowded, foul-smelling Ohio penitentiary?

Apparently no one is very enthusiastic about such an assignment. Proof lies in the fact that no one has been appointed to the post of warden permanently since James C. Woodard announced several weeks ago he would retire Sept. 1 as head of the institution. Meanwhile, even that veteran of 30 years' service in the prison is on a leave of absence—and apparently glad of it.

Furthermore, only two persons have filed formal applications for the position with Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood. And the welfare head contends they won't be considered for it. "It's the toughest institutional job in the state, and selecting the right man for the post is a real problem," Sherwood pointed out in a press conference.

He contended he had no one in mind for the appointment but indicated to newspapermen it would be a former military or police officer. The appointment probably will not be made before Sept. 1, Sherwood asserted. Even Acting Warden W. F. Amrine doesn't want the $3,900-a-year position permanently. He announced publicly some time ago he was not interested in the appointment and probably will resume his duties as state superintendent of correction when Woodard's successor is named.

Some believe the warden's duties will be turned over to D. J. Bonzo, parole and record clerk at the prison. Sherwood has declined comment on the report, but it is at variance with his own assertion that the next penal official will have had army or police training.

Ptak Not Considered
As for Deputy Warden August F. Ptak, it is unlikely he will be considered at all. After all, he obtained his present job under a Democratic administration.

But whoever gets it will have to cope with some of the same problems that brought about the resignation of both Woodard and his predecessor, Preston E. Thomas—overcrowding and lack of facilities.

No matter who is appointed, he will be able to do little to relieve the plight of 4,200 men who are forced to live in nerve-racking intimacy in a 105-year-old institution designed to accommodate 1,800.

During the civil service commission hearing on Woodard's appeal from a removal order, the things. It is the building of the main part of the local Methodist church. We happen to know two things. The late Ezra Hedges was a large contributor to the church building fund and that "Uncle Ben" Beaver and his force of workmen built it. But the year when this structure was erected and the names of those who assisted Mr. Beaver in its erection, we are not able to give without digging into some of the old newspaper files. And yesterday we quoted an argument about the date of the lot sale in East Lawn addition to the village, by rummaging through the old news files. This sale was held on Thursday, October 16, 1923. The News at that time contained many interesting items about the sale, but too lengthy to give here.

Oklahoma Solon Agrees To Speak At Saturday's Big Rally

COLUMBUS, July 25—Senator Josh Lee, of Oklahoma, will be the principal speaker when Democrats throughout the state stage their All Ohio Rally at the State Fairgrounds in Columbus next Saturday.

Advance ticket sales indicate some 25,000 party faithfuls will attend the meeting. Both afternoon and evening programs are scheduled. The speaking will begin at five p. m.

Rain will not interfere in any way with the planned program, according to George W. Carroll, chairman of the United Ohio Democratic League, sponsor of the mass meeting.

"We have arrangements to conduct the entire program under cover in the event of rain," Mr. Carroll said. "The 'Statesman's Village' will be housed in Machinery Hall and the county chairman organization will be established in the Club House.

"The Committee is greatly encouraged by the splendid response from Democrats throughout the state. Special trains will bring large delegations from Cleveland, Toledo and Youngstown. We are most hopeful that a crowd of more than 25,000 Democrats will attend."

Among the many features planned for the afternoon and evening program are an ox roast, band concert, victory dance, speaking program, fireworks display and other attractions.

FULL COMMITTEE GETS OHIO PENSION FUND PLEA

WASHINGTON, July 25—The full judiciary committee of the House of Representatives today was to consider a bill authorizing the treasury to pay $1,338,160 to Ohio as the federal government's share of old age pension payments for last October.

A subcommittee approved the bill, sponsored by Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, Republican of Ironton, yesterday. Jenkins expressed confidence his measure would be approved by the committee and passed by Congress before adjournment.

The money was withheld when the Social Security board charged the administration of former Governor Davey mixed politics with the old age division.

BRIDGE REPAIR QUESTION VOICED

Washington Township Men Must Walk Plank To Get Home

Three property owners appeared before the commissioners, Monday afternoon, to determine who is to repair a bridge on a branch of Hargus creek, damaged by the recent flash flood in Washington township.

Appearing before the commissioners were Floyd Ott and Cecil Elliott, residents along the road, and E. A. McCoy, owner of a tenant house on the road. They were represented by Atty. E. L. Crist.

The bridge was badly damaged and a part of the road washed away. The residents explained. A plank is used for crossing. "You have to be a wire walker to get home," Floyd Ott told the commissioners.

It is contended that old maps show the road as a public road and it has never been abandoned or made a private road.

A decision on the question was delayed by the commissioners until next week.

The property owners contend that if the road has never been abandoned it is up to the commissioners to repair the damage.

NARCOTIC AGENT SHOOT MAN FOLLOWING TUSSELE

COLUMBUS, July 25 — James McLaughlin, 45, was in St. Francis hospital today recovering from a bullet wound inflicted by a federal narcotic agent who said he tried to escape arrest.

The agent, A. D. Stevenson, said he was watching a house for McLaughlin, suspected of forging morphine prescriptions, when the suspect walked into the yard. Stevenson grabbed the suspect but in the ensuing struggle, he escaped and began to run. It was then Stevenson shot him.

KIWANIS CLUB'S CAMP FOR BOYS OPENS AUGUST 7 AT GOLD CLIFF PARK

PASTORS ASKED TO PICK YOUTHS FOR WEEK STAY

Full Program To Be Set Up With Trained Men As Directors

BIG TENT IS OBTAINED

Ball Funds To Be Used For Undertaking By Service Organization

A camp for underprivileged boys, sponsored by the Kiwanis club, will be held at Gold Cliff park, Aug. 7 to 12 inclusive. The dates were announced Tuesday by Elmer Stebleton, chairman of the committee on camp arrangements.

Each pastor of Pickaway county will be asked to select one underprivileged youth between the age of 12 and 14, inclusive, to attend the camp. It is planned to have about 20 youths.

Throughout the week the youths will have a program of recreation activities with four trained recreation directors of the W.P.A. in charge. The camp program will be in charge of Walden Reichelderfer, to be assisted by three instructors. Swimming will be enjoyed daily from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m.

Funds for the operation of the camp were obtained by the club from the Policemen's and Fireman's ball sponsored by the club last winter.

The Pickaway county Agricultural society, sponsor of the annual Pumpkin show, recently granted the club permission to use a tent during the week. The Boy Scout cabin at Gold Cliff will be used also for the camp.

Kiwanians will meet and eat with the boys on evening of Aug. 7.

Members of the camp committee, in addition to Mr. Stebleton, are L. V. Hulise, D. H. Marcy, Dan McClain and Herschel Hill.

Dr. B. R. Bales addressed Kiwanians Monday evening at their meeting at the Pickaway Country Club, explaining his hobby of shell collecting. Dr. Bales exhibited part of his interesting collection and answered numerous questions concerning the hobby.

According to word given us Monday evening by Melhard Crites himself, the local cannery will not be in operation until, possibly, the latter part of the present week and may not be until the Monday following. Said that prospects were promising for a good crop of fine corn and that everything about the factory equipment is ready for operation.

Within the last few days several local farmers in at "head-quarters", told us that the finest field of corn they have yet seen this year, is out at the Roger Hedges' place. It is Fred Richey's experimental plot of several acres and contains hundreds of cross bred matings. So, we all of us, present to you, Mr. Richey, a fine bunch of posies, and these before the lid goes on.

Grover Cline is yet on the improve and is below stairs now, fully dressed, eats all he can get under guard, and hopes to be back at the elevator again "one of these days now soon".

Relatives of Homer Sark, Duval, surprised him Sunday, his birthday, with making an unexpected call upon him and his family and with well filled baskets. Those present were Howard and Mrs. Ett and family; Robert and Mrs. Dennis and family; Julia A. Sark and Homer and Mrs. Sark and family all of Ashville.

In Mass Marriage Spotlight

FATHER Henri Roy, founder of the Joliet organization of young Catholic workers in the United States and Canada, is pictured above, left. He planned and organized the mass marriage at Montreal, Canada, where 100 "model couples," rigidly trained for a year in marriage preparation courses, were wed. Pretty Lucie Nadon, 22, right, is a typical bride.

Ohio Prison Warden's Position Goes Begging

COLUMBUS, July 25—Who wants the job of keeping 4,200 restive criminals satisfied and obedient in antiquated, overcrowded, foul-smelling Ohio penitentiary?

Apparently no one is very enthusiastic about such an assignment. Proof lies in the fact that no one has been appointed to the post of warden permanently since James C. Woodard announced several weeks ago he would retire Sept. 1 as head of the institution. Meanwhile, even that veteran of 30 years' service in the prison is on a leave of absence—and apparently glad of it.

Furthermore, only two persons have filed formal applications for the position with Felfare Director Charles L. Sherwood. And the welfare head contends they won't be considered for it.

"It's the toughest institutional job in the state, and selecting the right man for the post is a real problem," Sherwood pointed out in a press conference.

He contended he had no one in mind for the appointment but indicated to newspapermen it would be a former military or police officer. The appointment probably will not be made before Sept. 1, Sherwood asserted.

Even Acting Warden W. F. Amrine doesn't want the $3,900-a-year position permanently. He announced publicly some time ago he was not interested in the appointment and probably will resume his duties as state superintendent of correction when Woodard's successor is named.

Some believe the warden's duties will be turned over to D. J. Bonzo, parole and record clerk at the prison. Sherwood has declined comment on the report, but it is at variance with his own assertion that the next penal official will have had army or police training.

Ptak Not Considered
As for Deputy Warden August F. Ptak, it is unlikely he will be considered at all. After all, he obtained his present job under a Democratic administration.

But whoever gets it will have to cope with some of the same problems that brought about the resignation of both Woodard and his predecessor, Preston E. Thomas—overcrowding and lack of facilities.

No matter who is appointed, he will be able to do little to relieve the plight of 4,200 men who are forced to live in nerve-racking intimacy in a 105-year-old institution designed to accommodate 1,800.

During the civil service commission hearing on Woodard's appeal from a removal order, the things. It is the building of the main part of the local Methodist church. We happen to know two things. The late Ezra Hedges was a large contributor to the church building fund and that "Uncle Ben" Beaver and his force of workmen built it. But the year when this structure was erected and the names of those who assisted Mr. Beaver in its erection, we are not able to give without digging into some of the old newspaper files. And yesterday we quoted an argument about the date of the lot sale in East Lawn addition to the village, by rummaging through the old news files. This sale was held on Thursday, October 16, 1923. The News at that time contained many interesting items about the sale, but too lengthy to give here.

OHIO DEMOCRATS HEAR JOSH LEE

Oklahoma Solon Agrees To Speak At Saturday's Big Rally

COLUMBUS, July 25—Senator Josh Lee, of Oklahoma, will be the principal speaker when Democrats throughout the state stage their All Ohio Rally at the State Fairgrounds in Columbus next Saturday.

Advance ticket sales indicate some 25,000 party faithfuls will attend the meeting. Both afternoon and evening programs are scheduled. The speaking will begin at five p. m.

Rain will not interfere in any way with the planned program, according to George W. Carroll, chairman of the United Ohio Democratic League, sponsor of the mass meeting.

"We have arrangements to conduct the entire program under cover in the event of rain," Mr. Carroll said. "The 'Statesman's Village' will be housed in Machinery Hall and the county chairman organization will be established in the Club House.

"The Committee is greatly encouraged by the splendid response from Democrats throughout the state. Special trains will bring large delegations from Cleveland, Toledo and Youngstown. We are most hopeful that a crowd of more than 25,000 Democrats will attend."

Among the many features planned for the afternoon and evening program are an ox roast, band concert, victory dance, speaking program, fireworks display and other attractions.

FULL COMMITTEE GETS OHIO PENSION FUND PLEA

WASHINGTON, July 25—The full judiciary committee of the House of Representatives today was to consider a bill authorizing the treasury to pay $1,338,160 to Ohio as the federal government's share of old age pension payments for last October.

A subcommittee approved the bill, sponsored by Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, Republican of Ironton, yesterday. Jenkins expressed confidence his measure would be approved by the committee and passed by Congress before adjournment.

The money was withheld when the Social Security board charged the administration of former Governor Davey mixed politics with the old age division.
